Public Health Notice

Owing to the combined dronth and for other reasons many of the wells in the town are contaminated with Typhoid and other germs. The Board of Health, therefore, wishes to notify the public that as a precautionary measure all water from wells in the town should be boiled before being used.

P. GLEESON,

Chairman Board of Health

Dated October 1st, 1908.

Voters' List, 1908.

Municipality of the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox and Addington.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in sections 8 and 9 of the Ontario Voters' List Act the copies required in said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the List, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised assessment roll of the said municipality to be entitled to vote in the said municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly, and at Municipal elections, and that the said list was first posted up in my office at Napanee on the 19th day of October 1908, and remains there for inspection. Electors are called upon to examine the said list and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein to take immediate proceeding to have the said errors corrected according to law.

Dated at Napanee, this 10th day of October, A. D., 1908.

ADOLPHUSTOWN.

The Comedy Drama, "The Deacon" produced by the local talent of Adolphustown on Wednesday evening last, was a huge success. Each member of the company filled the parts assigned to them with credit. "The Deacon" Mr. Duffett, making a splendid representation of an elderly country gentleman who liked his lemonade with a stick in it, and who fulfilled his promise of marrying Miss Amelia, the old maid, which part was taken by Mrs. Cyrus Buck, who carried out the eccentricities of a maiden lady with success. Mrs. W. D. Roblin made a very stately Mrs. Thornton, while her daughter, Helen, Miss Ruby Clapp, made a charming young lady and lovely bride. Miss Mamie Mallory showed marked talent as an actress of a pathetic character. The dainty little housemaid, Mrs. Hollis, won the hearts of the spectators by her charming appearance and acting. The most difficult part, The villain of the play, was taken by Mr. David Roblin, and his able rendering proved him equal to the occasion. Grave, Mr. Frank Gallagher, proved his innocence of theft and cleared his name of all suspicion in an able manner. Billy, the deacon's boy, by Mr. McIlwain, created much amusement, while Miss Gladys Trumppour, as Nellie, made a sweet little girl. An interesting item and one greatly appreciated, was a duett rendered by one of our old Adolphustown boys, Mr. A. O. Roblin, Napanee, and Mrs. Hollis. They responded to a hearty encore. Mr. Davis made a vigilant policeman, and also proved himself a friend of the villain, in the character of Reid. Last, but not least, was the little darkey girl, "Topsy." Mrs. David Roblin, who made the hit of the evening by her witty speeches and comic actions, which provoked a continual round of laughter. The orchestra of Trinity Church Sunday School, Napanee, supplied the musical portion of the evening, and many were the encomiums bestowed on their music. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to $100.00.

YARKER.

The passenger traffic on the B. of Q. R. R., this last few days has been very heavy.

Quite a few of our Yarkerites went to Toronto.

The residents here seemed lost Sunday night as there were no services in any of the three churches here. Rev. Mr. Batstone took Rev. Mr. McCall's work in Trinity church, Napanee, Mr. McCall taking the anniversary services at Moscow Methodist church.

The children have started practising for their annual Christmas tree entertainment.

Clarence Ewart has gone to Illinois for a nine months' course at engineering.

The farmers certainly have improved their time ploughing, and will likely get through in this section.

Mrs. J. McNulty returned to her home, on Wednesday, after spending Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. George McDonald.

A number of villagers attended the concert in the Methodist church at Moscow on Thanksgiving evening.

B. Berbe, of the Bank of Ottawa, spent a few days here.

G. Craig, of the Merchants' Bank, at Georgetown, spent a few days here.

R. B. Gilbert is very proud of the arrival of a young daughter, born on Nov. 5th.

Miss Batstone, nurse-in-training, Belleville hospital, is at the home of her parents here for a visit.

James Freeman and wife have returned from a visit at the home of Rev. E. Farnsworth.

Philip Dunn, a one time resident of Yarker, was married to a Miss McNulty, at Butte City, Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison are in sore straits in Toronto. They were one-time residents of Yarker; he was foreman of the wheel factory here.

Mrs. C. Boyes returned to Kingston after spending Sunday here.

Peter Vanluren is on the sick list.

The Ladies' Aid of the Yarker Methodist church contributed handsomely towards the new iron roof.

John Wright has improved his residence by the addition of a handsome verandah.

Mr. Chayter, of Toronto, organizer for the A. O. U. W. spent a few days in Yarker.

BREEDERS' HORSE SHOW.

The next Horse Show, under the auspices of the Ontario Horse Breeders' Association, will be held at the Union Stock Yards, West Toronto (Toronto Junction), on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 13th, 14th and 15th, 1909.

During the time of the show a good street car service will be given from the city of Toronto to the Union Stock Yards.

The building in which the show will be held will be specially fitted with a show ring and will be well lighted and heated. All the horses on exhibition will be stabled at the Stock Yards and every opportunity will be given visitors to view the exhibits. Both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. have sidings in the yards and there is every convenience for the easy loading and unloading of the horses.

The different classes of the show with the prize money offered for each are as follows: Clydesdales, $820; Canadian Bred Clydesdales and Shires, $440; Shires, $302; Hackneys, $420; Standard Breds, $275; Thoroughbreds, $275; Ponies, $130; Heavy Draught Horses $305; Championships, $245; total prize money, $3215.

The list of prizes offered is practically the same as at the last show. Copies may be procured on application to the Secretary, Ontario Horse Breeders' Exhibition, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

TAKE THE HINT AND ACT NOW.

A new series of short stories is about to commence in The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, that are said to be the best ever offered to newspaper readers. A complete story will appear each week. The series alone is worth more than the whole year's subscription price, one dollar, and when one thinks of all the other good things that appear in that great weekly he can readily understand why the publishers so earnestly urge present subscribers to renew early and give them a chance to enter the thousands of new applications in December and January. It is safe to say that no person remitting a dollar for the Family Herald and Weekly Star for 1909 will regret it. Any farmer, particularly who is not a regular reader, is missing something he cannot afford to.

NEWS NOTES.

The safe of Mr. A. Brittain, jeweller of Wyoming, was cracked and robbed of a large amount of jewellery.

Coughs, colds, hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Cresolene Tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

The Newfoundland returns show eighteen members elected on each side, with every riding heard from.

Wallace's Black Cough Knots stop the tickle in the throat, 5c at the Red Cross Drug Store.

The returns from Prince Albert deferred election indicate a victory for Mr. Ruttan, the Liberal candidate.

Joseph Aussant, brakeman, was killed at North Bay. He fell while running ahead of a train to throw a switch.

A true bill has been returned against the corporation of Guelph for maintaining a nuisance at the sewage disposal plant.

Longboat, the famous Indian runner, has entered into a contract to run as a professional, with "Tom" Flanagan as his manager.

Officials of the Marine Department at Quebec deny the charges of graft, and in some cases threaten action against Mr. Drolet's firm.

E. H. B. Mackey, an insane stenographer, attempted to assassinate the Postmaster of New York city, and then committed suicide.

The Bond Government of Newfoundland is probably defeated. The Opposition, led by Sir Edward Morris, has elected eighteen members to the Government's seventeen, and one seat is still in doubt.

The death of the Emperor of China, which is believed to be near at hand, will probably bring about a contest for supremacy between the Chinese and Manchus.

Robert Hunt while driving near Hamilton got off the road and rolled down the steep embankment of Jolly Cut, receiving serious injuries. The horse and buggy caught in a tree part of the way down.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, in the Belleville Intelligencer, says the defeat of the conservatives was due to "trying to carry white elephants" and "the determination of the conservative party leaders to try to make Ontario people swallow them whose doings had turned their stomachs."

On and after Monday, Nov. 9th, the Cape Vincent, N. Y., council will not allow anyone on the steamer from Kingston to land at the Cape unless he or she produces a certificate of successful vaccination within seven years. A similar requirement was enforced at the Cape over twenty years ago when a contagious disease existed in this locality.

An inspector of barber shops will be appointed by the Ontario government it is said, early in the next session. For some time an agitation has been going on among barbers' unions to have all barber shops inspected as they are in Michigan and other states in the union. In Michigan every barber must pass an examination, and be licensed by the state examining board. In addition inspectors are appointed in certain districts who must visit the shops, and report on the hygienic conditions prevailing. The system to be introduced by the Ontario government will be along somewhat the same lines.

TACT IN TIME OF TROUBLE

Quite true—so said Providence in softening bereavement or failure with the balm of time! But just at that moment, the flippant remark was like salt on an open wound. The man in trouble told the tactless man what he thought of him as a comfort, and the

ONE-PIECE COSTUMES AGAIN

AFTER a reign of nearly a decade, the separate skirt is forced into retirement, the independent blouse is tossed into the discard. From the jumble of fall fashions, the one-piece costume, with a practically unbroken line from the shoulder to hem has emerged triumphant. The well-gowned woman of the moment builds her wardrobe almost exclusively from one-piece costumes, with matching or harmonious wraps.

This is not an economical change by any means, for there has never been a style so altogether pleasing to the thrifty woman as the tailored or semi-tailored suit with its various separate blouses. Wraps are always an expensive item in the fall and winter wardrobe, and with a variety of one-piece costumes, a similar variety of wraps is almost essential. The wrap which will look well with a herringbone princess costume is not precisely the correct wrap to wear with a costume built from silk-and-wool texture, supple broadcloth or crepe meteor. In fact the general use of supple, clinging cloth is increasing the number of wraps needed and making the building of the winter wardrobe a most absorbing problem.

However, as the costume is the thing, let us consider it for various uses.

The semi-tailored costume should come first in every woman's plans, certainly in those of the woman who has much shopping to do, or who goes to business each day. The latest demand of Dame Fashion along this line is for the princess creation in medium weight cloth, especially rich colorings with fine hair stripes of black or deeper hue, made with bias bands of satin or with silk braid, and a chemisette and half-sleeves of net, either dyed to match the fabric in the costume or of ecru, cream or white. This princess gown is apt to have a girdle of self-tone silk or soft satin, built high to simulate the popular, short-waisted effect, and with it will be worn a long, semi-fitted coat, with rather a short waist line in the back at least. Most of these coats have long skirts cut in deep points, and the really smart ones for hard wear show little trimming beyond the silk braid or satin bands.

With such a costume or suit is worn a hat of beaver, satin or felt, trimmed with breasts and wings, never ostrich tips. A popular trimming for tailored satin hats is the aligrette, and aligrettes sufficient to encircle one of the new satin shapes will cost all of twenty-five dollars. Stunning breasts and wings in shaded effects to harmonize with all the new shades of cloth can be had at much lower prices and are far more durable.

Almost "fussy" are the next set of costumes, such as might be chosen for calling, receptions, afternoons at home, club meetings and other indoor functions. These are of crepe meteor or other novelty goods with a satin lustre, messaline, breadcloths so supple as to suggest satin itself, silky nets, chiffon cloths, etc. While very little material is required for these gowns, four or five yards of double width cloth being sufficient, the trimmings and nets and fringes are so expensive that the original cost of the cloth itself is a mere bagatelle, compared to the accessories.

The Directoire and draped skirts are in high favor for these one-piece costumes, and while in cutting, the skirt and waist are made separately they are so cleverly joined and the juncture so cleverly hidden by trimming, that the effect is of a single garment from throat to hem. The draped skirt is of circular pattern with a seam down the front. The narrow, sheath skirt has a bias seam straight over the hips. The modified sheath skirt gains in popularity and is very becoming to the average figure. Sometimes instead of a mere split up the left side, showing fine pleating beneath, you have a decided suggestion of Greek draperies

FANCY BLOUSE WITH GIRDLE.

COMMON-SENSE VERSUS BEAUTY

THIS department does not offer a short cut to physical beauty nor is the writer a worker of miracles. In fact, the days of physical perfection and miracles alike are past. The present generation is trying to undo the evils of modern living contracted by many preceding generations. We have passed through an age of dosing and false living which has reduced sadly the standard of physical being. We are just getting back to the realization that plenty of fresh air, not steam heat,—plenty of outdoor life, not hothouse existence,—plenty of simple food not French catering, are needed to develop physical beauty.

Twenty years of right living will result in a new and fine race of children, but until that time comes, most of us will be seeking means of softening physical defects which cannot be entirely eradicated. Hence some of the requests which reach me by mail would be farcical if they were not so pathetic. Women who have defied nature now want remedies with which to outwit her. Women with physical defects which would defy the surgeon's knife want to know how to dose themselves and outdo doctors and surgeons in twenty-four hours.

Please bear in mind that this depart-loosen her corsets and buy larger, lower collars. If she has had her face skinned, her case is hopeless. I simply refer to this as an instance of the penalty some women pay for submitting to the beauty specialist who removes the upper cuticle entirely.

Excessive perspiration is another physical defect of which many women complain. This often comes from nervousness, and can be reached only by treating the nerves, by gaining self-control, by cultivating long sleeping hours and by avoiding that sense of driving one's self every moment of the day. To secure temporary relief and avoid unpleasant odors, bathe the affected parts with warm water in which baking soda has been dissolved, half a teaspoonful of the powder to a quart of water.

The woman who has been years acquiring wrinkles expects that a "real beauty doctor" can fill them out in a few weeks, provided the patient has the price of the treatment. This is a cure which money cannot buy. It lies in the patience and disposition of the patient.

First learn what causes your wrinkles. It may not always be time. You may have some other ailment which is digging wrinkles into a skin which should be flawless. Perhaps your feet

TACT IN TIME OF TROUBLE

TACT is an invaluable asset for the man or woman with social ambitions. And please bear in mind that tact is not toadyism. We all know the type of girl who hangs breathlessly on every word uttered by the woman of social influence, or who praises the hideous gowns of the woman whose dinner invitations she desires to secure. She is the girl who simply toadies. The tactful girl is not a toady—and what is more she does not have to be.

Tact consists of doing the gracious thing in a gracious way at the psychological moment when graciousness is most required. Tact is forgetfulness of self without "gush." Slang may not be good form, but it is often most expressive in an article on good form, and there is no word which will express so clearly a certain state of mind and form of conversation as that word "gush."

The tactful girl is the girl we are all glad to see in time of trouble. She will not open the wound afresh. She will not try to belittle our particular form of affliction. And she will not leave the scene of trouble to carry tales.

The other night two old-time friends came to the parting of the ways, simply because one was in trouble and the other was not tactful. And they were men at that!

The man in trouble had just passed through an experience which would try the strongest nerves. The man without tact would have gone all to pieces under the same experience and strain, but he did not realize that fact or, more plainly speaking, he did not think for his friend.

Instead he strode flippantly into the presence of the man who was holding his nerves down with a grip like iron and proceeded jauntily to remark:—"Say, I heard a good one about Blank to-day."

"Heavens, man," answered his friend, "don't tell me funny stories when I'm in this frame of mind."

"Oh, you'll be all over this pretty soon—and next year you'll laugh about it!"

Quite true—so kind is Providence in softening bereavement or failure with the balm of time! But just at that moment, the flippant remark was like salt on an open wound. The man in trouble told the tactless man what he thought of him as a comforter, and the tactless man told the troubled man what he thought of a chap who could not laugh in the face of a catastrophe, and the door was banged between them.

If only the tactless man had let his friend give vent to his feelings. If he had sat silent or uttered an occasional "That's so," as the tale proceeded, the friend would have been relieved by the process of pouring forth his soul, and they would have gone out for a nerve-resting walk, arm in arm.

A young man became entangled with a scheming woman—much older than himself and was rescued from an untimely matrimonial fate by a resourceful mother. Among his friends it was agreed that the affair was not to be discussed in his presence, but one night at a social gathering a woman who never loses her chance to laud her own sex remarked tactlessly:—

"I hear Miss Dash is to be married to a Buffalo man next week. Well, George, that was a lucky escape for you. You ought to thank your mother every day of your life."

A sickening silence followed, and every man in the room glared openly or covertly at the tactless young matron whose smug remark had opened an old wound and made every one in the room feel awkward.

The girl who can go into a sick room and cheer the sufferer without making light of the latter's affliction, who can go into the house of mourning and show courteous sympathy or perform useful service without becoming maudlin and hysterical, who can soothe, by a well-chosen remark, the feelings of some woman who has just been snubbed by another person,—she is the tactful girl.

If your friend has just met with a loss, or passed through some unpleasant experience, let her tell you all about it without interruption. Do not stop her at the end of the first sentence with "Oh, yes, but I had a much more severe attack."

The girl who can listen while another party relates her feelings is the tactful girl. Remember that for the time being the individual in trouble cannot get her thoughts from herself. Do not try to perform this miracle for her. She will not thank you.

Allow for the mental stress and nerve strain under which your friend is laboring—and do not interrupt her thrust your own affairs upon her attention. At another time, when she has disposed of her particular problems, she will be glad to listen to your confidences. For the moment, force yourself to concentrate upon her affairs, her troubles. That is tact in time of trouble, a social asset well worth cultivating.

The woman who has been years acquiring wrinkles expects that a "real beauty doctor" can fill them out in a few weeks, provided the patient has the price of the treatment. This is a cure which money cannot buy. It lies in the patience and disposition of the patient.

First learn what causes your wrinkles. It may not always be time. You may have some other ailment which is digging wrinkles into a skin which should be flawless. Perhaps your feet ache. That will cause a drawn look which will end in wrinkles around your mouth. Perhaps your eyesight is failing. Squinting will cause wrinkles around the eyes and crow's feet. Have your eyes examined and relieve the strain.

Try first to trace your wrinkles to some ache or pain which can be relieved. If this does not exist and it is a question of years, then perhaps you are using the wrong face lotion. The woman with a dry skin should never use a lotion containing an astringent like borax or benzoin. Her skin requires a cream that will soften, not draw it. If the wrinkles are very pronounced, the flesh can be fed with the following cream, but this must not be used when there is a tendency to a growth of hair or down on the face, as lanolin will encourage this growth:

Tannin.....1-2 grammes
Lanoline.....30 grammes
Oil of sweet almonds.....20 grammes
Melt the lanolin and oil in a double boiler with as little heat as possible. Remove from the fire and beat in the tannin as the mixture cools.

Speaking of superfluous hair, the woman who has a soft down on face or arms should not attempt any violent means of removing this. The X-ray is used to remove the hair, but it often leaves the skin as dry as parchment.

MYSTERIES OF RELIGION

Shall We Doubt Because Mists Still Hang About the Future State of Being?

The mysteries of God—I. Cor., iv. 1.

Man is a rational being. He wishes to understand himself and his surroundings. He likes intelligently to master his situation—to be sure of his ground—to prove his steps. But although he can know many things, he finds himself surrounded by the unknowable. The plainest facts are fenced all about by this veil of mystery. He knows that he lives, but he cannot tell whence his life came. He knows that he can lift his hand, but cannot tell how his will contracts the muscle necessary to the act.

The same mystery shrouds the realm of science. Lord Kelvin, in speaking of electricity, said: "Its secret is as sacredly guarded to-day as it was a century ago, and there is no prospect of its revelation." Yet because forces are incomprehensible, man does not deny their existence, but attempts to turn them to practical uses. "The greatest of all mysteries," says Pascal, "is to be conscious of none." The thinking man sees this realm of the unknowable and uses these facts which emerge from it for his well being and progress.

Now, it is remarkable that many persons who think themselves rational demand that there be no mysteries in religion. Unless they can comprehend all the doctrines in which its practical duties are set, they will

NOT HEED ITS MESSAGE.

But is it not to be expected that most of all, mystery should meet us when we come to religion, which relates to the deepest questions and the highest destinies of being?

Religion treats of God. What theme could be more hedged about with mysteries? Who can penetrate the secret chamber of the Almighty? Who can set forth infinite perfection? "Canst thou," says the Book of Job, "by searching find out God? It is high as heaven, what canst thou do? Deeper than hell, what canst thou know?" But because we cannot comprehend the Being of beings, shall we turn a deaf ear to the revelation of Him which the Bible gives us? Because we cannot know Him to perfection shall we refuse to believe the comforting truth that God is love? Shall we refuse His offer to hear our prayers because our poor finite minds do not see how He can answer them?

Religion has to do with man's immortal being. Shall we here expect a revelation that our reason can altogether measure? Religion tells us what our reason could never discover—that man is immortal, that his present is a sowing for eternity, and that the righteous shall shine as the stars forever.

Very truly does Francis Bacon say: "If we submit everything to reason, our religion will have in it nothing new, heavenly or divine." A religion without mysteries could give no food for our spiritual being. Take away the deep, the blessed, the infinite aspects that robe with mystery and you rob it of its power to attract, to comfort and to sway the hearts of men.

We learn here, then, how irrational is that criticism which asks the church to surrender her holy mysteries. And we note how false to their highest obligation are those ministers who discuss literary economic or social questions—which belong to another sphere—instead of setting forth the holy mysteries of revelation.

"Let a man so account of us," says our text, "as of the ministers of the mysteries of God." The true minister has not lost faith in the divine mysteries; nor let any one think that our modern age has passed beyond these. Were we to exchange these exhaustless themes for the dry husks of ethics, instead of filling, we would utterly empty our churches.

Man has a Godward side; he thirsts for the eternal and the infinite. And it is in the proportion that religion keeps to her sphere of ministering to his want with her unique divine and mysterious truths, that she will be a trusted and worthy guide to lead the soul to its everlasting home.

EXPERIMENTS WITH LIQUIDS FOR PREVENTION.

All But Tar Found to be Useless in Preventing Dust on Roads.

The thousands of experiments for the suppression of dust on macadam roads which have been made during the past five years have now developed a vast amount of data on the subject, which is summarized in Municipal Engineering, as follows:

on the left side, the opening outlined by applied trimmings or fringe.

As the season advances, more and more fringe is noted on smart gowns. It started as an edging or finish for sashes, then it was employed to edge tunics, and now it is seen all over the one-piece costume, and in narrow widths outlining stole effects on blouses.

In the designs shown to-day will be found some practical hints for home dressmakers. Figure A shows a semi-princess gown to be worn under a matching tailored coat. The model from which it was drawn was an olive-green mixed cloth of light weight with graduated bands of braid for trimming the skirt. This could be omitted if the gown is made for a short woman.

The rich ecru net which formed the chemise and half sleeves, with a bit of the cloth, braided in soutache at the top of the panel and buttons in dull gold and green enamel completed the trimming. This would make a good dress for wear under a semi-fitted coat of the same cloth, for shopping, traveling or to business.

Figure B shows a smart development of the one-piece gown in catwba colored crepe meteor, a fabric which will outwear and outshine the ordinary crepe de chine about fifty per cent. The garniture may be of plain satin or velvet in selftone, braided or embroidered. The sleeves and yoke are of tucked net, while a band of the plain satin or velvet, outlined by a simple pattern in braiding is needed to finish it around the foot.

In figure C you have very good suggestions for remodeling a gown. Perhaps you have a long, pleated skirt left from last year with some odd pieces of the material which was not used. Rip up the skirt, and, after sponging and pressing, cut out as economically as possible one of the new mounted skirts. With the pieces left from the skirt, which will be not a few if you use a narrow skirt pattern, and your left-overs from last season, you can fashion the parts of this bodice which should match the skirt, then with the aid of a messaline girdle in selftone, messaline bands, a little soutache braid and net or all-over lace, you can evolve a matching blouse so harmonious that the costume complete will simulate one of the new one-piece gowns. These selftone girdles and sashes, as well as the nets dyed to match the cloth or silk in the gown, are first aids to home dressmakers, bent on remodeling gowns.

Some Practical Fashion Dont's

DON'T wear bright colored gloves. Every year dealers import a great many pink, blue, green and other gayly colored gloves as novelties for exhibition purposes, but the well-dressed woman never wears them.

Don't buy any cretonne trimmings. They were a fad that came in with the warm weather and went out before the summer was half over. The fashion is absolutely dead. Brocade has replaced cretonne for vestings.

Don't cut handsome material up into a 23-gored skirt. If your cloth is handsome and of fine texture select a four or seven-gored pattern.

Don't buy brilliant colored fabrics for winter clothes. Everything that is new has a faded hue.

Don't wear long gloves over the long sleeves now so fashionable. With such sleeves should be worn a two button glove.

Don't pull your belt line down to a point in the front. Everything that is worn with a belt must be round and rather short-waisted.

Don't wear pale pink and blue tulle and chiffon ruffles with heavy tailored suits.

Don't have more than one sash on a dress. Many women have ruined the effect of a good dress by having a sash about the waist, one draped across the bust and perhaps an end or two at the back.

Don't wear your veils hanging loose at the back of the head. Veils are pinned tightly over the hat and ends are tucked out of sight.

Don't wear artificial flowers pinned on your fur.

Don't wear tan shoes with a trained dress. They are for walking and informal occasions only.

Don't wear a mushroom hat if you are a stout woman. It will take several inches from your height.

Don't wear distinct stripes if you are a thin woman. And don't apply the trimming on your dresses going up and down.

Don't wear dainty white lingerie, petticoats with dark tailored suits. If you cannot afford a matching silk skirt, then invest in some of the mercerized fabrics, such as sateen, brillantine, moresen, etc., all of which come in many shades.

Don't wear false hair unless it matches your own exactly.

MOURNING IN BENGAL.

Third Anniversary of Partition of the Province.

A remarkable anti-European demonstration was made throughout Bengal recently on the occasion of the third anniversary of the partition of the province.

The natives observed the anniversary as a day of mourning, discarding their clothes and footwear and abstaining from food. All shops were closed in Calcutta.

Several police proclamations were posted everywhere forbidding meetings and processions after 5 o'clock, and ordering the arrest of any native found carrying weapons.

In consequence of the alarming rumors that the Bengalis contemplated an attack on Europeans, two companies of Gordon Highlanders were turned out for patrol duty, and the remainder of the regiment was kept under arms in the fort.

Two hundred police with fixed bayonets marched to the scene of the principal assemblage in Calcutta, while five hundred other police, including plain-clothes men armed with revolvers, were posted in the native city, in order to be ready to quell any rioting.

Forty thousand Bengalis paraded the streets, the procession being a mile and a half long, and stopping all traffic. Surendranath Banerjee, the "uncrowned king" of Bengal, was escorted by a bodyguard. He walked beneath the standard of Bengal.

The police prevented any speeches being made by the agitators, and attempts to create disturbances were promptly suppressed. A European corporation official was attacked outside the university, and his carriage was stoned. One of the footmen was severely injured, and only escaped death in consequence of the bravery of the coachman.

JUST POSSIBLE.

"Honesty is the best policy," remarked the optimist.

"So it was in the days of the proverb maker," rejoined the contrary person, "but I guess the policy must have expired."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON.

NOV. 15.

Lesson VII. The Lord Our Shepherd. Golden Text,

Psa. 23. 1.

Verse 1. Jehovah is my shepherd—At first reading, perhaps, the substitution of the proper name for the expression "The Lord" may seem a weakening of the introductory sentence so familiar to us in the older form. In the Hebrew text, however, the personal name of Israel's God, "Jahveh," does occur; and that name, with all of its historic significance to members of the chosen race, is always in the mind, if not on the lips, of the devout Hebrew of to-day as he reads the psalms, as it has been in the minds of his ancestors through the decades of centuries since the poem was first written. Upon reflection and after a little practice in its use, in this familiar sentence, the strength and dignity of the proper name over against the expression "The Lord," which in verbal utterance the Hebrew substituted for the name of his God, will appeal to even a modern and a Gentile student of the psalm.

I shall not want—The abundance or want of many a flock and herd in grazing countries reflects the industry or the indolence of the shepherd, his care for the sheep or his indifference to their welfare, quite as much as the abundance or sparsity of pasturage in the vicinity. It is the consciousness of the fact that his shepherd is Jehovah which comforts and reassures the shepherd king of Israel amid the perplexing problems of his busy private and public life.

2. He maketh me—Perhaps every shepherd in the Orient is intent on securing the greatest possible comfort and the best possible pastures for his flock. But still there is a difference even between good shepherds, and the emphasis of the psalm at this point is clearly on the personal pronoun.

Leadeth—The shepherd leads, he does not drive his flock.

Beside still waters—The morning meal has been enjoyed to the full and in consequence of their hearty feeding the sheep have rested for a while "in green pastures," not in weariness but in contentment and peace. Now the morning is far advanced, the noon hour is approaching, the sun is hot, and the sheep are thirsty, but the shepherd finds for them a drinking place. Perhaps it is in some protected nook along the course of the mountain stream where the rushing brook pauses for a moment in a quiet pool, perhaps beside a deep well, or perhaps on the gentle slopes of a broad, deep stream.

3. Restoreth my soul—As does the cooling, refreshing drink at noon-time.

Guideth me in the paths—After the drink by stream or well, an afternoon climb on the narrow, well-worn paths of the foothills leading to some new grazing place, or to some familiar rendezvous awaits the sheep. But here, too, the shepherd leads the way. In the religious life it is the narrow path of righteousness that the trusting disciple treads in following his Divine Shepherd.

Electrolysis, or the electric needle, is used to pick the hairs out, but it is painful and almost impossible in case of the soft down. Better far to bleach the tiny hairs by an application of peroxide of hydrogen, nine parts; aqua ammonia, one part. Apply with a camel's hair brush until the hairs are so light that they do not show against the flesh.

Moth patches, which next to superfluous hair, count among the commonest feminine trials, are often due to a torpid liver. Eat quantities of fruit, particularly oranges; take exercise in the fresh air, and, internally, use salts under the direction of your physician or a reliable druggist. If the patches are very deep seated, while taking the above treatment, touch the spots with a camel's hair brush dipped in the following bleach:—

White precipitate.....1 dram
Subnitrate of bismuth.....1 dram
Benzoinated lard.....1 ounce

Have this put up by a responsible druggist, and after using it every night for a week, you will find the spots fading.

Dull-colored hair, muddy hair, lifeless hair—these all worry middle-aged women. Do not resort to dyes or bleaches, but ascertain the shampoo best suited to the coloring of your hair and use that faithfully. For hair that should be golden-brown use a little peroxide of hydrogen, say a half teaspoonful in the rinse water. Never use ammonia or borax on dark hair, but a plain green soap shampoo with plenty of clean rinse water. For red hair I have a special shampoo mixture, which formula I will be glad to send on receipt of stamped and addressed envelope.

Tempting Beverages for Afternoon Functions

Fruit Punch.—Into a large bowl put one heaping cup of medium dark brown sugar, and pour over this two cups of rather strong hot tea. Let this stand until the syrup is perfectly cold. Add to this one cup of orange juice, one cup of lemon juice, a small can of preserved strawberries, a small can of shredded pineapple and a bottle of cherries. Mix the fruit and the syrup well. Into the punch bowl from which it is to be served put a large block of ice and then add the mixed fruit. Now open two bottles of ginger ale and pour into it, then two or three large bottles of apollinaris water. Mix well and serve. If not sweet enough, add more sugar to suit the taste.

Claret Punch.—Take the juice of two large lemons and the grated rind, add to this one small glass of sherry and then one quart of claret. For every quart of claret, add one bottle of soda water or apollinaris. Pour over the block of ice and decorate with sprigs of geranium or lemon verbena.

worn paths of the foothills leading to some new grazing place, or to some familiar rendezvous awaits the sheep. But here, too, the shepherd leads the way. In the religious life it is the narrow path of righteousness that the trusting disciple treads in following his Divine Shepherd.

4. The valley of the shadow of death—Some dark and treacherous stretch of pathway through jungle or deep ravine where lurk hidden danger and death.

Thy rod and thy staff—Symbols of guidance and protection, the mere sight of which inspires confidence.

5. 6. A table before me in the presence of mine enemies—The evening shadows are deepening, the dangers to the right and to the left are multiplying, yet even now in the very presence of the lurking foe, the shepherd finds a safe feeding place where his flock may partake of the evening meal. On every side, in holes and caves, in jungles and behind rocks and knolls, wolves, jackals, panthers, and other enemies of the sheep are prowling near. Yet in their very presence the sheep are fed in safety.

My cup runneth over—The measure of the day's blessings, with its bounty and protection, its rest and its refreshing, overflows and passeth understanding or ability to appreciate. Yet while the blessings of even a single day cannot be measured or rightly valued, they still serve in the experience of the trusting soul to inspire a confidence that all will be well even unto the end of life. This confidence is reflected in the words of the closing verse of the psalm: "Surely goodness and loving-kindness shall follow me all the days of my life."

Dwell in the house of Jehovah for ever—Under the protecting care of the shepherd the flock has safely reached the fold. The night is spent within the gate in safety.

HARD WORK.

The boarders were alarmed one night by what sounded like a man running at a tremendous pace in one of the upper rooms. However, as it came from the second floor front room of the new boarder, nothing was said. The next night the same running noises were heard; still it was thought best to say nothing.

But the third night the noise differed; the boarders huddled together in the parlor as the chandeliers shook, for the man above apparently came down at intervals with a thump, thump, that fairly shook the house.

Two men were delegated to see what was the matter.

"What in the world is wrong in here?" asked one of the men as the door was opened by the new boarder, apparently breathless.

"Why," came the answer between gasps of breath, "I'm taking my medicine."

"Medicine?" echoed the men.

"Yes," said the man, as he dropped into a chair from sheer exhaustion. "It's tougher on me than it is on you. But the doctor said I should take it two nights running and then skip the third night."

HIS OPPORTUNITY.

"Now, wouldn't it be funny," remarked Popley, "if I were to become a little boy again."

"Maybe it wouldn't be so funny for you, pa," replied his bright young son. "If you wuz to be littler'n me, pa, I think I'd square up a few things."

oil treated roads have made much complaint against the treatment. It has been generally recognized during the last year or two that all these methods are mere palliatives, and do not strike at the source of the trouble, namely the weakness of the natural macadam binder. Under old-style traffic a macadam road wore out very slowly, but automobiles will destroy the finest surfacing in a year, stripping the top dressing down to the No. 2 stone. The water then finds ready access and does great damage.

NO TOP DRESSING.

Many countries, facing the problem of automobile wear, preferred to give up all attempt at maintaining a top dressing of fine screened stone, and have admitted traffic directly upon the coarser stone, which constitutes the second layer. It was recognized that if this mosaic of No. 2 stone could only be made waterproof it would give tremendous durability, inasmuch as the abrasion on this surface, as compared with a surface of fine screenings, was practically nil. The mosaic, in fact, on an old road is practically non-dust-producing, but is very susceptible to disturbance by water and disruption by frost.

TAR FOUND BEST.

It has been found that tar could be used to make the mosaic waterproof. A tar compound is applied to the road in a liquid condition, and hardens among the fine interstices of the roadway somewhat like cement in concrete. It is absolutely waterproof and a road so treated will shed water like the proverbial duck's back. In fact, if the road happens to be imperfectly drained so as to leave puddles after a rain, the water in the puddles will not be absorbed by the road and will only disappear by evaporation.

A single treatment will give good results for a year, and will frequently show good effect much longer. Sprinkling is unnecessary and an occasional cleaning is the only care required.

A treatment for such roads costs about $300 per mile, and calls for no apparatus except an ordinary sprinkling cart with a special adjustable nozzle.

It is pretty well established that the tar-treated surface preserves the road so well as to more than save its cost in the renewal of the stone.

Automobile traffic, instead of breaking it up, actually makes it smoother.

SAFE INDEED.

The modern troubadour felt hurt. "Oh, well," he remarked, "if you don't enjoy my songs I shall sing to the man in the moon."

The pretty maiden laughed softly. "Quite safe, Archibald," she chuckled. "The man in the moon is over 230,000 miles away and can't reach you."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Summer flowers bring autumn showers. It is estimated that one acre of meadow grass will give of 527 tons of water. An acre of wheat will evaporate 281 tons of water. The hay crop during the entire growing season evaporates an amount of water equal to 5½ inches of rainfall. The water which is evaporated by the leaves passes out through the breathing pores which are located on the under side of the leaves. The amount of water found in plants varies with different cases. One hundred pounds of green grass contains 60 to 80 pounds of water, lettuce, cucumbers, cabbage, and onions contains 95 to 98 pounds.

During the growing season there is being given off from field and forest an endless supply of moisture to the thirsty air. While this is not enough to meet the total demands of rainfall, it contributes materially to it. This contribution of moisture is lost when the season of plant growth is past. At the advent of autumn the earth's surface water supply is low, owing to the demands made upon lake and stream by the long warm season.

The earth's autumn carpet of leaves and dry withered vegetation also makes no small demands on the moisture. Hence but little rainfall. Indian summer is distinguished from all other seasons of the year by the hazy atmosphere which characterizes it, a phenomenon which is largely due to forest fires. In early times, says John M. Bishop, forest fires were of frequent occurrence in the autumn, due to roving bands of Indians on the chase. Hence the name Indian summer.

Indian summer is born in the wind. When the trade winds disappear the Indian summer comes. When the sun passes the equator to the south the trade winds set in to the southeast and in all particulars are similar to the trade winds of the northern hemisphere. When the sun is crossing the equator and the poles are equidistant from the belt in the sun's tract around the globe, it occurs that a rush of cold air to the equator comes from both the north and the south and on this account such great extremes of heat and cold occur at the equator as to set up the rare phenomena known as the equinoctial storms.

When the sun is south of the equator the trade winds blow from the northeast toward the equator and when the sun is north the winds blow from the northeast toward the equatorial line. Indian summer occurs after the sun has passed south of the equator and on this account the trade winds during this season are blowing from the southeast toward the equatorial line. These winds must cross the Atlantic

A BARONET IS MISSING

HEIR TO GREAT ENGLISH ESTATE IS MISSING.

May be in Canada at the Present Time — Can Trace Lineage to Conquest.

Where is Sir Genille Cave-Browne-Cave, heir to one of the oldest baronetcies in England? That is what the American authorities, at the request of the British Ambassador, are endeavoring to find out.

The missing baronet comes of a family which in the past has contributed representatives to Army, Navy, and Church. Right back to the conquest do the Caves trace their lineage, Wyamarus de Cave having come over in the train of Norman William.

ADVENTUROUS CAREER.

It was, however, an alliance with trade that brought the family most of its wealth, one of the younger sons marrying the heiress of Sir John Browne, one of London's Lord Mayors. This branch of the family adopted the English name, and became Cave-Brownes, while when the elder line died out and the baronetcy passed to the younger branch another Cave and another hyphen were added, and the family became the Cave-Browne-Caves.

Sir Genille was only the second son, but his elder brother, who was twelve years his senior, died in 1850, when the missing heir was quite a boy. The latter was always of a roving, restless disposition. He enlisted in the Dragoon Guards as a "ranker," and became riding-master, in which capacity he was with the second Nile expedition of 1855 and the Burmah expedition of 1887. He next entered the service of a New York firm of naturalists, and spent a dozen years in their service, hunting big game for them in the far East.

FOUGHT IN CHINA.

When the Boxer rebellion broke out he made his way to China and won the D. S. O., and then made his way to America, and the next that was heard of him he was a cowboy in Arizona. Later he was discovered working on the pavements in Kansas City. Then he inherited £10,000, and was reported to have settled on a ranch with the idea of one day restoring the shattered fortunes of his house.

But when his father, Sir Mylles, died in January last, the wanderer could not be found, and though efforts have been made in all directions no trace of him has been discovered.

The search for Sir Genille arouses the greatest interest in the districts between Burton-on-Trent and Ashby de la Zouch. Sir Mylles resided at Stretton hall until financial trouble arose. He sat on the Ashby bench, and was noted for his severity to poachers. For generations the family has produced talented wood carvers, and some wonderful examples adorn Stretton Hall.

the sun is north the wind blows from the northeast toward the equatorial line. Indian summer occurs after the sun has passed south of the equator and on this account the trade winds during this season are blowing from the south-east toward the equatorial line. These winds must cross the Atlantic ocean and in doing so come to the coasts of South America heavily laden with moisture gathered from the high mountain ranges. As the sun progresses southward the trade winds continue to increase in activity. Increased quantities of moisture are deposited in the tropical belt and finally brought up to North America. Through the instrumentality of southern trade winds, whose influence is felt in the northern hemisphere in the way of moisture, rain falls and the Indian summer is brought to an end.

Of the great powers France has the smallest population and the largest debt. The principal of the debt is $5,655,000,000; the annual charge on account of it is about $238,000,000. Taxation, therefore, is a particularly important question in France, and the subject of fiscal reform is discussed in an interesting manner by A. E. Gauthier in a book that was published recently. He makes a comparison which shows that there has been a notable increase of indirect over direct taxation. According to the budget of 1908, the revenue from indirect taxation would be 1,280 million francs, as against 482 million in 1830. During the same period, the revenue from direct taxation increased only from 279 million to 517 million francs. The indirect taxes have gone up almost to three times the old figure, direct taxes are about double what they were.

M. Gauthier says of the indirect taxation that "it ignores those whom it strikes and is equally ignored by them." It is easy to assess, but he believes that it is grossly unfair. He points out that in order to be successful it must be levied upon the necessities of life, and that 27 per cent of the burden falls upon the man with an income of less than 1,000 francs, whereas the man with an income ranging from 10,000 to 50,000 francs escapes with considerably less than 1 per cent. He argues, therefore, that fiscal reform should look toward direct taxation on the paying power of the individual, and says that ideal taxation would be a single tax upon incomes. A distinction should be made, however, according as the incomes are derived from capital, and work, and from work alone. The tax should be progressive and should not touch amounts below a certain minimum. M. Gauthier meets the objection that capital might be driven from the country by his system by saying that the general interests of the country would not suffer unless the capitalists were driven out too. And he is convinced that as taxation in France stands there is great need of modifications in the interest of justice, which can be attained only by the tax on paying capacity.

the family has produced wood carvers, and some wonderful examples adorn Stretton Hall.

MEANNESS AS A MANIA.

While thrift is one of the virtues, meanness is certainly a vice. It is narrowing, and stints a man's mind and soul. Although mean people abound in all parts of the world, the champion specimen is surely a man who was recently sued for divorce by his wife in the United States. In her evidence, she stated that, after twelve years of married life, he refused to increase her housekeeping allowance of $2 a week. He kept a pair of scales, and weighed all the groceries, counting the apples and eggs. On one occasion he even counted up the sticks in a box of macaroni. The limit of meanness was surely reached, however, when he compelled their son to take long strides in walking, to save shoe-leather. By this, said he, the lad would get along just as well, and wear out his shoes less quickly.

PEARLS OF TRUTH.

Idleness is the key of beggary. Talent is one thing; tact is everything. Silent men never have occasion to "eat their words." People are always asking for advice but never taking it. There is always hope for a man until he loses his self-respect. The first step towards knowledge is to learn one's ignorance. When a wise man gets the worst of it, he makes the best of it. "Misery loves company" — the kind that is long-eared and patient. "Man wants but little here below" — usually is a little more than he gets. Mind your own business — and let other people muddle theirs, if they want to. Many a man doesn't do anything worth while because he thinks it isn't worth while.

BEGGING IN LONDON.

It is calculated that 4,000 persons make a living in London by begging, and that their average income amounts to about $7.20 a week or over $1,500,000 a year. Last year 1,925 persons were arrested for begging in the streets, of whom more than 1,500 were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one week to three months. Many of these objects of charity were found in possession of sums of money, and even of bank-books showing very handsome deposits.

THE BUMPTIOUS INDIVIDUAL.

There are in every community a number of aggressive, loud-voiced people who should not be allowed to have their own way too much. In common parlance, these fellows want sitting on. They are often not bad sorts at heart, but they are greedy and bumptious, and it is a most salutary thing for them to be sat on.

Police Official—"Any clues to that mysterious murder?" Detective—"Yes, sir; I've arrested all the living members of the family." Official—"Glorious! What evidence have you?" JAPAN'S FLORAL CALENDAR.

To Each Month is Dedicated Some One Flower or Leaf.

The Japanese are extremely fond of all flowers and they have therefore made a calendar from them, giving to each month a favorite blossom or leaf.

Thus the pine, the emblem of lasting prosperity and life belongs to January. Its branches are used to decorate all houses on New Year's Day.

To February belong the blossoms of the plum tree, which stand for purity, and the beautiful blossoms of the peach tree, to which young girls are compared, are associated with March.

Next the cherry blossom, the most beloved of all flowers, is held to belong to April, and to May are assigned the gorgeous clusters of the wistaria.

The iris flower, to which is compared the strength and beauty of young boys, belongs to June, and July has the glory and perfume of the water lily. The flowering hibiscus tree attaches its beauty to the month of August, while September claims the exquisite azalea.

The royal flower of Japan, the chrysanthemum, which forms a part of the crest of the imperial family, belongs to the month of October, while to November is given the maple leaf, admired for its decorative quality. Finally with December is associated the beautiful camellia, which blooms in the gardens even in the midst of snow.

MOST POPULAR BABY.

Kaiser's Two-Year-Old Grandson Who will be German Emperor.

The most popular baby in Germany to-day is the Kaiser's eldest grandson, who is now two years old. Pictures of this tiny boy who, if he lives, will be Emperor, are scattered broadcast throughout the country. They adorn countless thousands of postal cards and are mailed by hundreds daily. His father, the Crown Prince, is an expert horseman, and one of his delights is to take his son for a gallop about the castle grounds. The youngster seems to delight in it, and is a great favorite with the grooms and stablemen. For his years, the heir presumptive is said to be unusually precocious, resembling in many ways his illustrious grandfather, who is very fond of him and who spends much of his spare time with him.

CHOLERA AND THE GANGES.

Whitewashing the Reputation of the Sacred River.

The revolting customs which prevail among pilgrims to the Ganges, including promiscuous bathing by those who are well and those who are suffering from diseases of all sorts and the drinking of water from the bathing places, make the following item from the Indian Review somewhat of a surprise.

"The reputation of the water of the Ganges among the Hindu millions of India is known to all, and most of us were content to believe that in a hot and thirsty land like northern India such a magnificent river as the Ganges had many claims to be highly thought of, but it would appear as if modern science was coming to the aid of ancient tradition in maintaining a special blessedness of the water of the Ganges. E. H. Hankin, in the preface to the fifth edition of his excellent pamphlet on 'The Cause and Prevention of Cholera,' writes as follows:

"Since I originally wrote this pamphlet I have discovered that the water of the Ganges and the Jumna is hostile to the growth of the cholera microbe, not only owing to the absence of food materials, but also owing to the actual presence of an antiseptic that has the power of destroying this microbe. At present I can make no suggestion as to the origin of this mysterious antiseptic."

LEOPOLD'S RULE IN CONGO

MILLIONS OF HUMAN BEINGS HAVE BEEN KILLED.

Missionary Relates Almost Incredible Facts at a Meeting at Liverpool.

An outspoken address on misrule in the Congo was delivered to the Student Missionary Conference at Liverpool recently by the Rev. John Harris, of the Congo Reform Association.

The basic iniquity of the Congo regime lay in the claim of the Sovereign, absolutely unprecedented in African history, that the whole land and the whole marketable produce of the country were the property not of the natives of the Congo, but of himself and of those Europeans with whom he was associated.

The next step was inevitable, and that was to claim the labor of the people. This was putting back the clock a hundred years—it was slavery pure and simple; and in the Congo territory they had two thousand white men engaged directly or indirectly in enforcing those demands upon the inhabitants.

ARMED THE SAVAGE.

A weapon was placed in their hands by the Sovereign of the Congo, and the right was given to capture relatives, to chain them by the neck and hold them at ransom as guarantees, that rubber and ivory would be brought. The effect of this had been to turn the whole Congo Valley into an immense pawnshop, in which the pledges were the defenceless men and the helpless women and children of the Congo.

The white men were sending black men into the forests to chase the natives. Weapons of precision were placed in the hands of black men, of whom 33,000 were now perambulating the Congo territory, striking terror into the hearts of the people, capturing hostages and bringing them in to the white men.

MILLIONS KILLED.

He did not intend to dwell on the atrocities, of which there were thousands, flogging being the least; but these men, armed with rifles and cartridges, were big, strong, brutal fellows, and they picked up a rabble as they went forward to their task. It was no exaggeration to say that during the last ten years there had been done to death under King Leopold's regime on the Congo, directly and indirectly, at least three million human beings.

"You will rise from the study of this question," concluded Mr. Harris, "as I many times have done with the conviction that it is useless to carry the gospel through this and other parts of Africa if these things are allowed to be perpetuated, because you cannot limit their effect to the Congo Valley."

COMET COMING OUR WAY

THE VISITOR WILL BE VISIBLE NEXT WINTER.

Danger of Collision With Jupiter—Last Seen Seventy-five Years Ago.

After an absence of seventy-five years Halley's comet (so named after the astronomer who determined its orbit) is on a return trip.

In November, 1908, it will be unusually faint and will then probably only be discovered with the aid of the camera.

After October, 1909, the comet will probably be visible to the unaided eye. Even now it is nearer to us than Saturn and is rushing forward at the rate of 520 miles a minute. After it passes Jupiter, the next planet on its way, the speed will increase to 783 miles a minute. It will then plunge through the zone of asteroids or tiny planets which wander between Jupiter and Mars. Woe to any small asteroid it may encounter on the way, but worse still for the comet should it crash head on in its mad career into the giant planet Jupiter, the great disturber of comets.

THE ROBBER PLANET.

It is a well known fact that the giant planet has a way of annexing comets and even tiny asteroids which may happen to drift his way in a most unprincipled fashion. Suspicions have been aroused concerning two new moons acquired of late years, which doubtless were once members of the asteroid family. Jupiter has been gravely accused by some learned astronomers of exerting his mighty influence on the helpless worldlets and adding them to his own family circle. Not only that but he has reached out for passing comets, and captured no less than thirty which are now recognized and spoken of as Jupiter's "family" of comets.

THE PACE THAT KILLS.

After passing Jupiter, the asteroids and Mars the comet will increase its speed to 1,284 miles a minute, dashing onward past our planet at the increased rate of 1,548 miles a minute, and rushing frantically around the sun as though to escape its intense heat at the rate of 1,875 miles a minute. By that time it will have reached the limit of the pace that kills, for an increase in speed of about 17 miles a minute would end disastrously. The comet would be drawn along a path so changed in direction that we would never see it again.

On May 2nd, 1910, or one day before the comet makes its nearest approach to the sun, it will pass Venus.

On June 12th, 1910, the comet will pass within five to ten million miles of the earth's orbit, and then gradually recede into space, after making its obeisance to its mighty ruler, the sun. As it recedes the comet's pace will decrease, as though worn out by the stupendous efforts already made. Passing by Neptune, its speed will have slowed down to sixty-five miles a minute, and by the time it has reached its greatest distance from the sun it will have declined to the rate of thirty-nine miles a minute.

HER OPINION OF HIM.

How a Woman Got Even With a Too Smart Lawyer.

If there is anything exasperating in this life it is the barrister who delights to bully and otherwise despitely use a witness, more particularly when that witness is a woman. It is on this account that there is a general rejoicing when that kind of lawyer is smote hip and thigh by one of his supposedly helpless victims. Of such is the following tale.

The woman was in the box, and she was a very nice-mannered, respectable woman, who kept a cheap boarding-house, and it was the desire of one of her guests to be dishonest that had brought her to the court to make him pay his board bill.

"How old did you say you were, madam?" inquired the lawyer, with no reason on earth, for an elderly landlady is no more anxious to lose a board bill than a young one.

"I did not say, sir," she responded, flushing to the roots of her hair.

"Will you be kind enough to say, madam?"

"It's none of your business."

"Objection sustained," smiled the judge.

"Um," said the lawyer, rubbing his chin. "How much did you say the amount was the defendant owed you?"

"Fifteen dollars."

"And for how long was that?"

"Three weeks."

"That's five dollars a week, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Three weeks at five dollars a week is fifteen dollars, I believe you said?"

"Yes, sir."

The witness was patient, but her temper was not improved under the strain.

"Isn't that an extravagant price to pay for board in your locality, madam?" inquired the lawyer, severely.

"He didn't pay it, sir," answered the woman, beginning to turn.

The lawyer gave a little start of surprise, then became indignant at the very thought of a witness talking like that.

"Don't be facetious, madam," he said, assuming a tone of warning. "This is a serious matter. I have asked if your prices were not exorbitant, and you have seen fit to answer lightly, madam. Now, madam, I ask you in all earnestness if you mean to tell this Court that your prices are moderate, and that if I should come to your house to board you would charge me five dollars a week? Answer directly, madam," and the barrister squared his shoulders and assumed an imperial manner.

The witness was not at all abashed.

"No, sir," she said, simply. "I would—"

"I thought not, I thought not," interrupted the lawyer, bending over and rubbing his hands.

"No, sir," continued the witness. "I should not charge you at all. I should make you pay in advance."

Then the Court forgot all about its dignity and everybody laughed except the lawyer.

Direct Cause of the Increase of Divorcees in Japan.

There is no such thing as the mother-in-law joke in Japan. Of all the serious things that the Emperor's subjects take with their characteristic seriousness the mother-in-law is perhaps one of the weightiest.

The relation between her and divorce statistics in the island empire recently published by imperial commissioners shows how inept would be a joke about one's wife's mother in Tokio. According to these statistics 65,510 decrees of divorce were granted by the courts last year. In Iwate province the proportion of divorces to marriages for the year was 26.30 per cent., the highest percentage in all the islands.

The commissioners themselves in a commentary upon the increase of divorces in Japan give it as their opinion that the rapid increase is due directly to the growing frequency of clashes between wives and their mothers-in-law. With the introduction of an educative system for girls and the softening of the stringent social bonds that used to keep women in a place of obscurity has come the manifestation of a new and rebellious spirit among the women.

Since everything in Japan is the reverse of conditions in Occidental countries it is not to be wondered at that if there is any pressure from the fabled hard hand of the mother-in-law it falls upon the Japanese wife and not the husband. This is because of the very fundamentals of Japanese religion and family life.

Since the son must always be loyal and obedient to his parents during their lifetime, no matter how querulous and exacting old age may make them, when he takes a wife, that unfortunate woman is more than her husband a slave to her husband's mother. From the days when Shinto began to be the national faith of the Japanese filial affection and obedience necessitated as a matter of course that though the son might marry, his abode should be the abode of his parents until their death, unless their consent to another arrangement could be secured.

This has meant that two and often three generations occupy one house, and of all the occupants of one of these communal houses the younger wives are the least in importance. They remain strictly accountable to their mothers-in-law until such time as death steps in and makes them supreme through childbirth.

Although in the larger cities the Western civilization has to a great extent modified ancient custom much of the irksomeness of ancient restrictions remains in the family life of the country people. There it is that the clash between the new found independence of the women, found in schooling, and the old scheme of a dominant mother-in-law has brought about the greatest number of separations in families of the newer generation.

BOTH LOOKING FOR HIM.

The stranger advanced towards the door. Mrs. O'Toole stood in the doorway with a rough stick in her left hand and a frown on her brow.

"Good morning," said the stranger, politely, "I'm looking for Mr. O'Toole."

"So'm I," said Mrs. O'Toole, shifting her club over to her other hand.

ruled, the sun. As it recedes the comet's pace will decrease, as though worn out by the stupendous efforts already made. Passing by Neptune, its speed will have slowed down to sixty-five miles a minute, and by the time it has reached its greatest distance from the sun it will have declined to the rate of thirty-nine miles a minute.

APPEARANCE AND POSITION.

It is impossible to say anything regarding the position of the comet in the sky as observable from the earth until certain computations have been made. A prize has been offered by the German Astronomical Society, of 1,000 marks for the most exact calculation, and when it is made we shall know exactly where to look for the comet.

As to the appearance of the comet on its return, it depends entirely upon its position with regard to the earth and sun. If the earth happens to be near the comet about the time of its passage round the sun, when the comet's light is necessarily greatest and the train most extended, then we shall have a splendid view of the glorious spectacle. At its return in 1759 the comet had a train fifty degrees in length, and was best seen in the southern hemisphere. That is, the train of the comet extended to a distance equivalent to a little more than half the way from the zenith to the horizon.

At its next return, in 1835, it was somewhat shorn of its splendor, for its train was but fifteen degrees in length. How the comet will look on its next return it is impossible to conjecture, but it is to be hoped that it will treat us to a display worthy of its former reputation.

RUSSIAN EDUCATION.

Middle Class are Better Educated Than English Middle Class.

The "Intelligenzia" of Russia, writes the Hon. Maurice Baring in "A Year in Russia," is, properly speaking, composed of every one who can read or write. But the term is generally used to designate those members of the middle class who belong to the professional classes—doctors, professors, teachers and literary men. The average man or woman of the Russian middle class is better educated than the average English man or woman of the same class.

They are saturated with the foreign classics. They often speak two languages beside Russian, and they are conversant with modern thought in the various European countries, so far as it is allowed to reach them. They are taught at school things which will be useful to them.

Every one receives a general foundation of knowledge. The average Russian boy knows more about English history than the average English boy, let alone European history. A cultivated Russian of the middle class is saturated with John Stuart Mill, Ruskin, Morley and Carlyle, and Shakespeare, Milton and Shelley are treated as Russian classics.

DEADLY DRINKING FEAT.

Sheffield Miner Drank Pint of Whiskey in Four Minutes.

An inquest was held at Sheffield, England, recently on George Redgate, aged 61, a miner, of Handsworth, near Sheffield, who drank a bottle of whiskey for a wager.

Redgate was heard to remark that he could eat as much tripe as would make him a suite of clothes and a top coat, and then he "could sup a pint of whiskey in twenty-five minutes."

The bottle of whiskey was brought, and three men offered to pay for it if Redgate could carry out his boast. He did this easily, drinking the whiskey in four minutes. He had to be helped home, where he lay for a day unconscious, and afterwards developed gastritis, which ended in death from heart-failure.

The coroner remarked that the object of such a foolish wager was now rarer than formerly—was usually to have a laugh at the victim's expense.

THE COLORS OF EGGS.

Mr. A. R. Horwood of the Leicester (England) Museum remarks that the colors of birds' eggs can in a large number of cases be traced to the necessity of "protective resemblance." White eggs are usually laid by birds nesting in holes in trees, or in dark situations, like owls, woodpeckers and some pigeons. Most birds nesting on or near the ground lay eggs of an olive-green or brown ground color. The eggs of grouse, ptarmigan, and so forth, resemble the heather amongst which they are laid. Those of the ringed plover, little tern and oystercatcher resemble the sand and shingle of the beach. The lapwing eggs closely simulate bare soil or dried bents. The young chicks show similar "protective" colors.

HAILSTONES IN ENGLAND.

Large stories are told of the damage done by hailstones in Minnesota last month. However, old England itself has some statistics to show in that line. On May 20, 1897, a terrible hailstorm visited Seaford, Sussex. Some of the "bolts" measured four and a half inches in circumference after lying on the ground for fully seven minutes. On June 24, in the same year, the most disastrous visitation of the kind in modern times ravaged parts of Essex and the adjacent counties.

A DEPLORABLE OCCURRENCE.

A mother and her two lads run down and killed at a level crossing near Goderick! A snowstorm made it difficult to see or hear, and there are probably scores of such crossings in Ontario where on a stormy night or even day, the users of the King's highway are menaced with a terrible death.

The level crossing is in many cases a local issue, but it is also a Provincial issue. This fact is being recognized by the State Legislatures in all the progressive States across the border. The principle established is that the abolition of a dangerous level crossing is something in which the railway, the State, and the municipality are interested. The cost is borne by these three entities in varying proportion, the municipality's share being placed at a low percentage. It is mainly from the municipality that the initiative comes. The fact that a portion of the cost will be assessed against it, even if it is only fifteen per cent., will confine the applications for abolition to such cases only as call loudly for action.

In the United States the railways instead of resisting the movement are in harmony with it. They have come to recognize that it is a public crime to operate trains running at the rate of forty-five or fifty miles an hour over unprotected and dangerous crossings. It is a matter that the Ontario Government should take up. It would be a popular plank in the policy of either of the parties. There would be no danger of running the municipalities into heavy or unwarranted expense, for no action would be taken except with the consent or at the initiative of the municipal authorities. Here is an important subject for Sir James Whitney and his colleagues to deal with.—Toronto Globe.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure. Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense. Otherwise it was rewritten or thrown away.

Ear Wagging.

Only animals with long and drooping ears are able to wag them. A rabbit, for instance, can do what it likes with its ear, dropping one or both and laying them flat along its back when dashing through thick cover. Hares are still more brisk in ear movements. But short eared beasts, like weasels and stoats, are unable to wag their ears in any degree, although they have enough ear to wag if they had the power.

The Boss.

"But," exclaimed the man of delicate sensibilities, "will your conscience permit you to do as you suggest?"
"Look here, friend," answered the New York politician, "I am accustomed to be boss even of my own conscience."

Not Modesty.

"Sometimes," said the press humorist, "I think my jokes are rotten. I suppose that's my modesty."
"No," explained a friend, "that's your common sense."

They Certainly Keep It Dusted.

Women in all lands are the custodians of speech. They preserve its purity. To them must go much of the credit of the improvement in American English.

The Red Ferns.

"Stop the auto!"
"But, sir"—
"I think I saw some red ferns."
"Better lemme keep on, boss," advised the chauffeur earnestly. "Them red ferns is the local constable's whiskers."

The Open Window.

The best part of a modern house is its windows. To keep these open day and night and to make the air inside approach as nearly as possible the air outside should be the first business of the housekeeper.

What He Ordered.

Guest (in cheap restaurant)—See here, waiter, I thought I told you to bring me a strong cup of coffee.
Waiter—Well, wot's de matter wid dat cup? Youse couldn't break it wid an axe.

Hardly Acquainted.

"Yes," said the would be artist broadly, "I am wedded to my art."
"Now, I am surprised," rejoined Critics. "Judging from specimens of your work, I shouldn't have thought you were even engaged to it."

Good Family.

"My daughter appears to have married very happily," remarked a lady.
"Her husband has not wealth, it must be admitted, but he has family."
"Yes, I heard he was a widower with six children!" a neighbor sniffed acidly.

Signs.

"Do you believe in signs?"
"Well, I must confess that when I see a man wearing one proclaiming that he is deaf and dumb I get a little shaky."

partially explained by the uncertainties and difficulties to be encountered in locating their presence as well as the great skill, experience and endurance required in handling them with rod and reel.

Although infrequently seen near the Florida keys, they seldom leave the vicinity of the warm gulf stream, whose waters approach within five miles of Palm Beach.

One usually finds them on warm, sunny days, swimming with their great dorsal fins slightly out of water, and immediately a school is discovered all power must be used to force ahead of them, cross their path a hundred yards in advance, then stop and allow the bait to drift slowly, when a lively fresh bait should be cast.

While they often strike at cut bait or a spoon in trolling, they are seldom well hooked, owing to the peculiar character of their jaws. As a rule they bite very quietly and must be given thirty or forty feet of line before striking, as their mouths are small, hard and bony, not unlike the tarpon in their internal structure, and can rarely be captured unless the bait is well swallowed.

When hooked they create a terrific commotion, first endeavoring to run the most powerful reels in that rushes, then making perpendicular leaps in rapid succession, clearing the waves by many feet, trying desperately to shake out the hook and finally making long side dashes just under the water, somewhat like a kingfish.

These movements are occasionally interrupted by low, rapid flights just above the water, when their immense sail seems to play its part in aerial navigation.

Bore and Critic Both.

Midnight came and still the bore remained.

"Do you like music?" asked the beautiful girl just to break the monotony.
"Passionately fond of it," replied the bore. "In fact, music will always carry me away."

She rushed over to the piano and played several popular airs.

"You are still here," she said, turning on the stool.

"Yes," yawned the bore.
"But I thought you said music always carried you away?"

"So I did—music!"—Dundee Advertiser.

The Value of a Good Memory.

If men only realized how great an asset in life is a retentive memory they would take care to see that their children's were properly trained. The simplest method consists in learning every day a few lines by heart. None of our faculties can be trained so easily as that of memory.

Lefty Tibet.

Although the mystery concerning Tibet has been mostly dissipated as a result of the English invasion, the curious nature of that country continues to excite great interest. Think of an inhabited land covering between 700,000 and 800,000 square miles and having a mean elevation exceeding 10,400 feet, which is considerably higher than Mont Blanc! The loftiest peaks reach an altitude of about 20,000 feet, while the deepest valleys, in the higher parts of the plateau, do not descend below 14,400 feet, which is higher than Pike's peak. Toward the south the valleys sink lower, and rice and fruit are cultivated up to 11,500 feet. Here the most important centers of population are found—Lassa, Shigatse and Gyantze.

His Harmless Candidate.

A Georgia farmer posted this sign on his front gate:

"Candidates Will Pass On. No Time to Talk to 'Em."

One morning his little boy shouted from the garden walk:

"There's one o' them canderdates here, and he says he'll come in anyhow!"

The man looked toward the gate and said:

"Let him in. There's no harm in him. I know him. He's been runnin' ever since the war, jest to be a runnin'. It runs in his blood, an' he can't help it!"

Explanations In Order.

A man whose wife was extremely jealous planned a pleasant surprise for her in the form of a trip to New York to see "The Merry Widow" and wrote a friend in the city to let him know the earliest date for which he could secure seats. The next day when he was away from home the following telegram was delivered there, addressed to him, but opened by his wife:

"Nothing doing with the widow until the 10th. Will that suit you?"

Explanations were demanded.

As to a Courtship.

"He's telling everybody that she is his first love."

"And she?"

"She is confiding to a select few that he is her last chance."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Scalded by Boiling Fat.

Couldn't Use Hands for a Month.

Zam-Buk gave Instant Relief.

An accident in a Toronto home might have had very serious consequences had it not been for Zam-Buk. Miss Martha Green, of 9 Claremont St., in taking a pan of boiling fat from the oven split it over her right hand. "The boiling fat ran into the palm of my hand," she says, "and over all my fingers. I was almost wild with the pain. The hand became swollen, and large blisters formed all over the palm and along the fingers. For over a month I was unable to use the hand at all. I tried several kinds of salves and liniments, but the wound seemed apparently no better. It was altogether too severe for these preparations to heal."

About this time I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I stopped using all other preparations and applied it instead. The very first application soothed my hand and seemed to draw out the fire and inflammation; and as I kept on using Zam-Buk the blisters gradually dried up and disappeared. In a very short time the scald was healed completely."

This is but one instance of the uses to which Zam-Buk can be so advantageously applied. It is equally effective for burns, cuts, bruises, abrasions, sprains and stiffness. It also cures eczema, ulcers, sores, blood poisoning, ringworm, scalp sores, chronic wounds, blackheads, pimples, cold sores, chapped hands and all skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well on to the chest, in cases of cold, it relieves the aching and tightness, and applied as an embrocation it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c, a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for receipt of price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

The Badge of Honesty

Is on every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superior worth as a blood purifier and invigorating tonic for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can in which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, Stone and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-recognized medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholow, King, Scudder, Coe, Ellingwood and a host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as in all bilious or liver complaints and in all "wasting diseases" where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through them, the whole system. Thus all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing to apply to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist doesn't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine or known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

What Is the Earliest Event in Life You Can Remember?

"I can remember back to my fourth year," said a physician. "I was four during the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876, and I remember two Centennial scenes well. One was a great room full of brass band instruments—horns so big and yellow and shiny that they delighted me. I remember, too, a Turkish coffee room. My father took me into this room. Turks in native dress served the coffee. I liked the place at first; then I saw that it was noisy. The native waiters shouted horribly. I was frightened. I was on the point of tears, but whether I cried or not I can't tell you."

"I can remember back to the time when I was three," said a lawyer. "At the age of three my family took me to Cape May. I saw my father out in the water. He laughed and held out his arms to me, and, all dressed, I ran into the sea to him."

"All of us," said a psychologist, "can remember back to our fourth year. Some of us can even remember back to the second year. It would make an interesting article, a compilation of the earliest memories of a lot of people. The trouble, as a rule, is to fix the date of these memories, so as to be sure of our age at the time."

THEIR HOPE, THE PEOPLE

Muskoka's Brave Battle for Needy Consumptives.

It is poor consolation to needy consumptives to say that the Government should make provision for the thousands who suffer and die from tuberculosis in Canada every year.

The Government should do a great deal more than they have yet dreamed of doing. But they are not doing it, and in the meantime twelve thousand die annually in the Dominion, from this dread disease.

As the situation is to-day, what would be the fate of many consumptives in Canada were it not for the two Homes for Consumptives in Muskoka that during the past eleven years, against many odds, have cared for upwards of three thousand patients in the earlier stages of the disease, whilst in the two sister institutions, on the banks of the Humber, those in the more advanced stages are treated.

This work in Muskoka is one of pure philanthropy. From the day the first patient was admitted to the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives in April, 1902, not a single applicant has ever been refused admission because of his or her inability to pay.

The Government contribute $1.50 per week per patient. The cost of maintenance is $0.25 a week. The difference in the cost of maintenance of all needy patients has through these years been made up by private philanthropy.

The Secretary-Treasurer of the Association, Mr. J. S. Robertson, 317 King Street West, Toronto, writes us that, with the financial depression of the past year, the funds of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives have suffered greatly. At the commencement of the winter season the Trustees have to face a heavily overdrawn bank account and have many obligations to meet.

Despite these financial worries every applicant is receiving careful consideration and patients are admitted as promptly as beds are made vacant.

All through these years the institution has been maintained, not by any rich endowment, for such does not exist, but by the generous contributions of the masses of the people—the small sums rather than the large ones.

We frankly say that we do not know, in our experience, of a more worthy and deserving charity, and our hope is that the readers of these lines will respond to the appeal that is now made for funds for the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives.

Contributions may be sent to Mr. W. J. Gage, 84 Spadina Ave., Chairman of the Executive Committee, or to J. S. Robertson, Secretary-Treasurer of the National Sanitarium Association, 317 King Street West, Toronto, Ontario.

Only Loving Them.

A smart baby carriage stood outside a small shop in Ealing, in the outskirts of London. In it slept a pretty dimpled baby, and beside it lay a fat pig puppy, its nose almost touching the baby's cheek.

Beside them stood a little ragged wail, whose tattered garments barely covered her with decency. In turn she stroked the baby and the puppy.

A lady passing noticed the strange picture—the beautifully dressed baby, the pig puppy and the ragged child. The baby's mother was in the shop.

"Are you looking after them?" she inquired kindly of the wail.

In a moment the child's face was glorified by a heavenly smile.

"No, ma'am," said she, "I'm only loving them."

WHEN THE ICE BROKE.

Description of an Old Time Spectacle on the Hudson River.

The breaking of the ice on the Hudson river is described in "Memoirs of an American Lady" as a "sublime spectacle." A hundred and fifty years ago the whole population of Albany deemed it a sight well worth some effort to see. The first noise of the breaking ice, like a long, loud peal of thunder, sent every one hurrying to the riverside, and if it happened to be an early morning hour there was a grotesque assemblage.

No one who had a nightcap on waited to put it off. As for waiting for one's cloak, it was a thing out of the question. You caught the thing next to you that you could wrap around you and ran. On the way you saw every door left open and pails and baskets without number set down in the street. People never dreamed of being obeyed by their slaves until the ice was past.

The houses were left quite empty. The meanest slave, the youngest child, were to be found on the shore.

When arrived at the show place the multitude, with their eyes all bent one way, stood immovable and silent as death until the tumult ceased and the mighty commotion ended. Then every one tried to give vent to the vast conceptions with which his mind had been distended.

The swelling of the waters under the ice, increased by rivulets, enlarged by melting snows, led to the general bursting of this mighty mass of ice. Conceive a solid mass from six to eight feet thick bursting for many miles in one continued rupture, produced by a force inconceivably great and in a manner inexpressibly sudden.

Thunder is no adequate image of this awful explosion. The islands and lowlands were all flooded in an instant by an impetuous torrent, bearing down, with incredible and tumultuous rage, immense shoals of ice, which, jammed together in some places, in others erecting themselves in gigantic heights for an instant in the air, seemed to combat with their fellow giants and, falling together with an inconceivable crash, formed a picture animated and various beyond conception.

Answered the Question.

The chief clerk of the postoffice department at Washington sent to all the postmasters in the country a list of questions asking for certain information, to be used in the preparation of the Government blue book. One of the questions in the list was, "What are your marital relations?"

The object of this particular question was to find out whether the postmasters are married, single, widowed or divorced. But some of the rural information, says The New York Sun, to be used in the preparation of the Government blue book. One of the questions in the list was, "What are your marital relations?"

The object of this particular question was to find out whether the postmasters were married, single, widowed or divorced. But some of the rural postmasters did not understand, and many answers were received in which the persons addressed endeavored to give a clear and lucid explanation of the status of their married life. One postmaster briefly stated that his domestic affairs were "fine and dandy." Another not so fortunate replied, "Fairly middling," while a third filled in the blank space with two words, "The worst."

Making It Clear.

Lovely Daughter—Pa, Mr. Nice-fello proposed to me last night, and I referred him to you.

Pa—Well, I really don't know much about the young man, and I'll have to—

Lovely Daughter—When he calls to see you about it you are to receive him kindly—real fatherly, remember—and help him along all you can until he asks for my hand, and then you are to look alarmed and talk about what an angel I am and how many millionaires and dukes and princes I've refused, and then you are to reluctantly consent and give him your blessing.

"Oh, I am, am I? But suppose I don't. Then what?"

"I shall marry him just the same."

"Are you looking after me?" she inquired kindly of the waif. In a moment the child's face was glorified by a heavenly smile. "No, ma'am," said she, "I'm only loving them."

Editorial Repartee.

A western weekly prints the following:

"Paterfamilias asks, 'How can I get an article into your esteemed paper?' It all depends on the article you want to get into our paper, Pater. If it is small in bulk, like a hair-brush or a tea caddy, spread the paper out upon the floor and, placing the article carefully in the centre, neatly fold the edges over it and tie with a string. This will keep the article from slipping out. If, on the other hand, the article is an English bathtub or a clothes horse you will find it more suited to one of the New York Sunday papers."

Cut This Out

And Save It.

Says Many Persons Here Can Be Made Happy Again By Using It.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Bad Eggs.

Seated in a dark, cool cellar, a lighted candle in one hand, three eggs in the other, the egg candler talked. "No egg is unsalable," said he. "You can sell an egg when there's nothing left of it but the shell. Who buys it then? The kid glove maker. He beats his kids soft in a yolk bath, and the ripper that great foaming yellow bath is the more joyously the kid glove maker splashes about in it. Here's a half dozen fresh brokens, O. K. but for the shells. The confectioners 'll take 'em. This couple is what you might call fair—what your grocer would term 'fresh' not 'new' but 'best fresh'—only 'fresh.' Such eggs you could stand in a Spanish omelet, but not boiled. We'll split them and sell the yolks to low class bakers and the whites to papermakers for sizing."

HIS CORRECTION.

The American Knew a Little About Shakespeare and English.

An English literary man who visited this country some years ago to lecture frankly declared that he came not expecting to find accurate scholarship among Americans, especially on purely literary subjects, adding affably:

"You have been too busy and useful a nation in practical matters to give much time to the arts and graces of learning."

During the dinner at which he made this remark he criticised Shakespeare, sharply declaring that his metaphors often were absurd. "as, for example," he said, "'Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care.' How ridiculous to figure sleep as knitting up a torn sleeve of a coat!"

A young American sitting near him said modestly: "I think the word is not sleeve, but slave, the thin fluff of a damaged web. It is a technical expression among weavers."

"In the United States," he retorted the critic irritably. "Shakespeare never could have heard it. He meant slave."

"I believe," persisted the American gently, "the word is printed slave in all the old editions. It is not an American word, but has been used for centuries by weavers in Scotland and the north of England."

The visitor frowned and then with English frankness said, laughing: "Thank you. I was mistaken. Perhaps I am mistaken about other things and will be corrected before I leave your shores."

Save Babies Lives. For Babies and Small Children. (Made in France.)

Dr. Hennequin's Infant Tablets saved our little girl's life. Three doctors said she could not live. The Tablets cured her.—Mr. E. R. McBRIDE, Napanee, Ont.

My baby was so weak from sickness that he could hardly walk. We thought he would die. We could find nothing to help him. I was given a sample package of three Hennequin Tablets; we used them; I saw a change at once. We secured the Tablets and our baby improved every day, and is now a bright, fat, good natured boy; you could not believe he was the same child. They certainly cured my baby and saved his life. I believe them to be the best medicine ever sold for babies. Mothers if your babies are not well take my advice and try these Tablets.—Mrs. JAMES RIDDELL, Barrydale, Ont.

We have hundreds of such letters. If the Tablets were not what you need we would not offer to give them away and prepay them. If your baby is not well send for trial package. Hennequin Tablets have the letter "H" stamped upon them—this is your guarantee. All dealers, 25c per package; or 50c for $1.00 sent postpaid to any address.

HOW TO CURE A HEADACHE

To attempt to cure a headache by taking a "headache powder," is like trying to stop a leak in the roof by putting a pan under the dripping water. Chronic headaches are caused by poisoned blood. The blood is poisoned by tissue waste, undigested food and other impurities remaining too long in the system. These poisons are not promptly eliminated because of sick liver, bowels, skin or kidneys.

If the bowels do not move regularly—if there is pain in the back sh wing kidney trouble—if the skin is sallow or disfigured with pimples—it shows clearly what is causing the headache.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure headaches because they cure the cause of headaches.

"Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the three great eliminating organs—bowels, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" keep the system free of poisons.

"Fruit-a-tives" come in two sizes—25c and 50c. If your dealer does not have them write to Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

THE TARANTULA.

An Abstemious Creature That Has Been Much Maligned.

The great tarantula of the southwestern part of the United States, like many another poisonous creature as well as some that are quite harmless, is much maligned. It is not aggressive upon man, nor is it often intrusive, though many an old miner or prospector has "shaken them out of his blankets or boots in the morning." Strange to say, tarantulas thus dislodged are unusually "the size of a saucer."

It is often stated that the spider frisks about in the sunshine on the hot sands of the desert, but in reality it avoids sunshine when it is hot and remains well down in its burrow in the ground. About sundown it comes up to the opening and lies in wait just below the surface. It assumes this position whether it desires food or wishes only to get a bit of fresh air. It does not travel about in quest of food even when hungry, but remains quietly in the attitude described, often for hours at a time. At the near approach of a caterpillar, grasshopper, beetle or almost any creature of like size other than its enemy, the wasp, it rushes out and seizes it, but rarely goes farther than a few inches from the opening.

Should the prey when first arrested simulate death, which often is the case, since usually it is not at once wounded, the spider, unless it is very hungry, remains quiet until the insect moves, when the needle pointed fangs are thrust into it. By pausing it learns the nature of the object seized. The spider then retreats with it into its burrow to feast, where the prey is ground up by the powerful mandibles and the liquid portion, upon which the spider subsists, is sucked out. One fair sized insect a week is sufficient to satisfy its hunger because of its inactive existence, while it can live several months without food, even when most active, provided it has water. The spider will fight and destroy its own kind, but when equally matched the combatants spar for an advantage and rarely clinch unless one relinquishes its vigilance, when the other buries its fangs in it. It does not relinquish its hold until the helpless captive dies of paralysis, induced by the poison injected. Death results in ten or twenty minutes. There are approximately seven or eight females to each male. The adult males are highly energetic and, unlike their phlegmatic mates, cannot be kept long in confinement. They wear themselves out in ceaseless endeavor to escape. This striking degree of activity is an essential attribute, since the females live often remote from one another and take no initiative in the courtship.

The Cave Dwellers of Italy.

In several of the towns of southern Italy through which I passed there were pointed out to me caves cut into the solid rocks of the hillside where people are living. In one such cave house in Scili, Sicily, there was a rough bed on one side of the cave, on the other an oil press turned by a donkey. Often I have seen houses whose walls were constructed of brush and mud and the roofs made of rough tiles or thatched with straw. The peasant has been most patient. Naturally light hearted and long suffering, he would cheerfully eat a piece of black bread and an onion for his morning meal, cornmeal much seasoned with a little olive oil and bread for dinner, boiled potatoes and a piece of goat's cheese with more black bread at night, and then at the close of his humble repast stoop down and touch the ground with his hand and, kissing it, thank God for his favors. In some of the remotest towns the simple minded people continue to do so. But contentment under such conditions could exist only so long as there was no contact with the outside world. Whether the land holders desire it or not, progress is bound to come.

His Defence.

How sweet is the innocence of childhood!

Tommy Jones, aged seven, and his mother were invited to tea by Mrs. Brinks. While the meal was being prepared Mrs. Jones wandered about the two yard square garden and admired the weeds.

Presently the absence of her cherished Tommy alarmed her, but shortly the truant reappeared contentedly munching a huge slab of cake.

In her relief, as is usual, Mrs. Jones began to upbraid the lad.

"Thomas," she said, "I'm afraid you've been greedy and asked kind Mrs. Brinks for that cake."

But the boy faced her fearlessly. "Oh, no, mother," he replied, "I wouldn't be so rude! I waited till she turned her back; then I snatched a piece!"—London Mail.

A PENAL SETTLEMENT

INTERESTING TALES OF A CONVICT ISLAND.

New Caledonia, Soon to Be Delivered From Its Prison Taint, Is a Famous Resort For Tourists—Strange Stories Told of French Prisoners—Murderers Are Said to Make the Best Domestic Servants.

New Caledonia, the beautiful island in the Pacific which the French authorities use as a penal settlement, will shortly be free of this taint. The convict prisons are to be transferred to Devil's Island, and other French possessions in that neighborhood.

Although New Caledonia is at least a thousand miles from Australia, and well away from the beaten track of the tourist, it is the happy hunting-ground of many Australians by reason of its beautiful climate and picturesque scenery, and the globe-trotter is a familiar figure there. The late Lord Dunmore, the famous sportsman, hunter, adventurer, and Christian Scientist, spent some months in the island inspecting some property on behalf of a well-known exploration syndicate. He was struck with the number of men attired in grey dress, who were acting as servants, and, making inquiries, was informed that they were convicts hired out by the authorities.

On one occasion he was informed by a French merchant, at whose house he was staying, that murderers usually made very good servants, and that settlers preferred, if possible, to hire a murderer than the ordinary criminal.

"It seems a strange thing to say," said his host, "but it is true. The murderer who is essentially a bad man is usually guillotined, and only those are spared whose cases show extenuating circumstances. The worst type of these men is sent to Devil's Island; the better type comes here—men who, perhaps, have killed faithless wives in one terrible, overwhelming moment of passion, and their after-life is one long act of remorse. We had one man here who killed his daughter to save her from a life of shame. Men like this you cannot class with the brutes who kill their benefactors or harmless, inoffensive people."

This accounts for the very peculiar fact of one large household having three murderers in its staff of servants. But this excites no comment in an island where nearly everyone has "done something," the only exception being the gauler and official class, and a few visitors.

There is a large number of Kanakas on the island—fine big men who are simply grown-up children. Lord Dunmore and a friend made a voyage up country to see a tribe of Kanakas, who were amusing themselves by riding on a merry-go-round. Their chief, a tall, stately man of magnificent proportions, stood apart, gravely watching his men enjoy themselves. Lord Dunmore's companion walked up to this chief, and, pointing out the earl, said: "He big chief?"

The Kanaka looked critically at Lord Dunmore's splendid figure, scanning each of the seventy-four inches of height. Then he said that, although the earl was a good figure of a man, he was not sure of his rank. At that moment Lord Dunmore strolled along, looked fixedly at the Kanaka, and then for a joke, took out his glass eye, hid it in the palm of his hand, and glared with one eye at the dusky native. Then he rapidly swept his hand across his face, and replaced the eye.

"Kanaka no savvy that!" said the onlooker. "He big chief!"

"No," rejoined the native in awe.

THE DOGWATCH.

No One Seems to Know For Certain How It Got That Name.

The simplest facts, quite unchallenged and taken for granted, are often the hardest subjects for investigation. "Did you ever ask a sailor or a know-it-all why the dogwatch is so called?" queries a writer in The New York Sun who has himself made the experiment.

The chances are that the answer will be, "Why, the dogwatch is two short spells from 4 to 6 and from 6 to 8 o'clock in the evening to break the regular four-hour watches, so that the same men will not have to stand watch during the same hours every day."

Simple and lucid. But why "dog"? In a hunt after an explanation the first question was put to the officers' mess of a big battleship. Not one, from the executive officer of a quarter of a century's service to the ensign with his first stripe, could answer.

A boat's crew from the same ship failed to throw any light on the subject, although a gunner's mate allowed that "it might be they once had dogs on ship and they was let loose when this watch was on."

An officer of an Atlantic liner said he never had heard so silly a question.

"Why, the dogwatch is the dogwatch," he explained. "There's no why or wherefore about it. It's always been the dogwatch, and it always will be."

Having had the matter so airily disposed of by this officer, inquiry was pushed to the East river, where may be found men who have been going down to the sea in real ships for many years. The pursuit of the "dog" was useless.

"Say," said a Harlem boatman, "what's the matter with trying 'Fighting Bob'? If he can't tell you the great American navy will lose caste."

So up to Rear Admiral Evans went the query. And from Fort Monroe came the answer:

U. S. S. Connecticut, Sept. 2.

Dear Sir,—I am unable to give you the information you ask about the dogwatch. Of course we all know why the watch is made two hours, but no one seems to know why the name dog was applied. Yours very truly,

R. D. EVANS.

At last a public library was resorted to. The dictionaries were merely provoking. "Five Thousand Facts and Fancies" was the only book found that threw light on the matter. Its explanation reads:

"Dogwatch, a corruption of dodge watch. The dogwatches were introduced to prevent the same men from always keeping watch the same hours of the day; hence on these occasions the sailors are said to dodge the routine, or to be doing dodge watch."

It may be added that Murray's great English dictionary gives a quotation introducing the term dogwatch from a book published in 1700, but gives no theory of the origin of the term.

Exclusiveness In Heaven.

The minister had dropped in to tea, and the conversation had drifted through various channels to the question of whether or not we should know each other in heaven. Presuming that our physical beings would be perpetuated and that recognition would be assured, the minister had asked various ones at the table among whom the Biblical characters they would be most interested in recognizing. Some mentioned one prophet and some another, but one lady, noted for her social exclusiveness, had not spoken. Turning to her, the minister said, "And who would you like to meet in heaven, Mrs. Intheswim?"

Mrs. Intheswim pursed her lips. "I really don't know," she said.

ed along, looked anxiously at the Kanaka, and then for a joke, took out his glass eye, hid it in the palm of his hand, and glared with one eye at the dusky native. Then he rapidly swept his hand across his face, and replaced the eye.

"Kanaka no savvy that!" said the onlooker. "He big chief!"

"No," rejoined the native in awe. "Kanaka no savvy that. He sanguinary big chief!" At least, that is as near the real expression as may be given.

One of Lord Dunmore's employees had a funny experience up-country. He decided not to wait for the boat but to strike inland, and inspect a certain mine.

As Kanakas do not care much for ordinary currency, he was advised to take out a lot of Jews' harps, and mouth-organs, which he could easily exchange for food. But, to his disgust when he arrived at his destination, he found that a rival prospector had set out two days before him with a similar stock, and had swamped the market. He had to buy fruit and chickens at exorbitant prices by promissory notes on a certain firm, which all New Caledonian natives will take, and this was aggravated by the fact that every glade through which he passed during the next three days was ringing with the joyful noise of Jews' harps and mouth-organs.

Shortly before his departure from the island Lord Dunmore gave a ball, which in one respect was the strangest ever given. It was held in a large galvanized-iron warehouse, draped with flags, and fitted out as a ballroom. Here two hundred men and women met to dance to the strains of a splendid band, dressed in the grey uniform of the convict. Every member of the orchestra was still "doing time." Below the bandstand sat a group of warders with loaded revolvers in their belts, all ready to "draw" on the band, if the convicts misbehaved.

How to Keep Meat Fresh.

Veal, mutton and pork will keep perfectly fresh in warm weather without the aid of ice or salt for weeks by keeping submerged in sour milk. Change the milk when mold appears. Rinse meat in cold water when ready for use.

The Pyramids.

Two principal theories have been advanced for the erection of the pyramids of Egypt. One is that each king on ascending the throne began to build a pyramid as a tomb and monument to himself. This was usually laid out upon a comparatively small scale, so that if the builder had but a short reign his tomb might be complete. As time passed successive layers were added, and the size of the monument was thus proportioned to the length of the builder's reign. This theory is combated by Petrie, who believed that each pyramid was begun and carried out upon a definite design of size and arrangement.

How Sea Lions Capture Gulls.

The sea lion displays no little skill and cunning in capturing gulls. When in pursuit the sea lion dives deeply under water and swims some distance from where it disappeared; then, rising cautiously, it exposes the tip of its nose along the surface, at the same time giving it a rotary motion. The unwary bird near by alights to catch the object, while the sea lion at the same moment settles beneath the waves and at one bound, with extended jaws, seizes its screaming prey and instantly devours it.

acters they would be most interested in recognizing. Some mentioned one prophet and some another, but one lady, noted for her social exclusiveness, had not spoken. Turning to her, the minister said, "And who would you like to meet in heaven, Mrs. Intheswim?"

Mrs. Intheswim pursed her lips. "I really don't know," she said. "But there is one thing I do know, and that is that I shouldn't care to meet Eve. In fact, I don't know that I would speak to her if I did!"

In the Baltic sea, forty miles from the mainland, lies the Swedish island Gothland, a Mecca for students of early Gothic architecture. In Wisby, alone, the chief town of the island, with its population of 8,000 souls, may be studied what remains of no less than ten churches, some of which date from the eleventh and twelfth centuries. The oldest of them is the Church of the Holy Ghost, completed about 1046.

He Knew by Experience.

A little boy who had just this season joined Sunday school was asked by his mother how he liked it.

"Why?" exclaimed Charlie disgustedly. "they don't know much. The teacher asked what was the collee, and I was the only one who knew."

"And what did you say, dear?"

"Why, I told them pretty quick that it was a pain in the stomach."

Mrs. A. D. Trudeau, Annapolis, Ontario, writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I suffered terribly from ulceration of the feminine organs for eight years. I tried four doctors but got no relief, and thought I would have to die."

"One day I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper. I sent for some, and before I had used five bottles I was entirely cured. I hope every suffering woman will take my advice and use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

THE FREAKISH WIND.

Pranks It Has Played With Smoke, Dust and Grain.

During a volcanic eruption in the Hawaiian Islands the smoke rose to a height of between five and six miles and then drifted away to the north-east. At a distance of 600 miles it settled on the surface of the sea and was then carried back by the north-east wind to its place of origin, where it arrived a fortnight after its original departure and covered the entire group of islands with its heavy pall.

Not long ago a steamer was on her way along the north African coast from Asia to England and had entered the Galita channel between the island of that name and the coast of Tunis when a fine dust began to darken the air and soon afterward to fall on deck. Some of this dust was collected and subjected to chemical analysis in Europe. Its constituents proved that it had been carried high in the air from the Sahara desert and had finally dropped into the Mediterranean.

More extraordinary still was a dust shower that fell in Hungary some years ago. Analysis showed that this dust was identical with the sediment of the Nile. The dust was believed to have been brought by the wind all the way from Egypt, a pretty long journey for a shower of that description to accomplish.

It must have been a high wind indeed that brought a shower of wheat on one occasion to the villagers in a place on the southern coast of Spain. The wheat fell like rain. There were so many witnesses of the occurrence that it was impossible to doubt that it had appeared. But for some months it could not be accounted for.

Then came the other side of the story. It was learned that shortly

PICTON.

Commodore Miller has a scheme up his sleeve in regard to the Picton Yacht Club. He has been in communication with the Watertown yachtmen for some time, and they express favorable opinions as to making Glen Island their headquarters for their annual summer cruise. It is the feeling that Chaumont Bay is not entirely satisfactory for regatta purposes for the Eastern Yacht Racing circuit. This summer the regatta was not as well attended as might have been, because many of the yachts were stalled by the high sea on the lake. This would likewise affect Kingston. It is therefore, thought best in the future to hold the summer regatta in the Bay of Quinte, whose waters can always be depended upon for calmness.

If the Crescent Yacht Club make this their decision, it behooves the Picton club to get busy, thinks the genial commodore. He strongly advocates the incorporation of the yacht club, with the determination to build a new clubhouse in the harbour. Such a clubhouse would fill a long felt want in the social life of the town. It would serve a two-fold purpose, house the club and be a place for social gaieties. The annual meeting of the yacht club will be called shortly and this will come up for discussion.

PERUNA A WONDERFUL BOON IN MY OLD AGE.

MRS. MAHALA REID.

Heartily Approves of Per-una and Man-a-lin for Kidney and Bowel Trouble

MRS. MAHALA REID, Corbyville, Ont., Canada, writes:

"Your celebrated remedies have been a wonderful boon to me in my old age.

"I have not been in so good health for several years as now. I was troubled with constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

"A little over two years ago, I completely lost my health, becoming almost helpless, when a dear friend sent me your remedies, Peruna and Manalin. I began to take them, following the directions on the bottle. I very soon began to feel benefited by their use and continued to take them.

"I am now completely recovered from the above ailments, in fact, better than I have been for years past. I cannot praise the remedies too highly and will always recommend them to others."

Constipation is almost sure to set up other derangements.

Retained accumulations within the bowels are partly reabsorbed into the system, producing sometimes rheumatism, sometimes kidney trouble.

The blood being surcharged with acids, which ordinarily find their escape through the bowels when they are regular, rheumatism is the result.

Acid blood forms crystals, which accumulate about the ligaments, cartilages and sometimes the bones in the joints.

Such morbid accumulations of blood throw extra work upon the kidneys. The kidneys being unable to perform the unusual labor of excreting these poisons, often give way and kidney trouble is the result.

Permanent relief cannot be reasonably expected except by correcting the constipation.

Regular bowels are a great safeguard to health. Peruna and Manalin are unexcelled the world over for chronic diseases affecting the bowels and kidneys.

Mrs. W. W. Lamaster, 3127 McAtee Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes:

"I suffered for twenty-six years with bladder and kidney trouble, and being advised to give Peruna a trial, I did so. Eight bottles of Peruna and three bottles of Manalin entirely cured me."

ASSERTED HERSELF.

The Young Woman Also Had a Few Questions to Ask.

The young woman was being interviewed by her prospective employer. The man bit off his words and hurried them at her in a way to frighten an ordinary girl out of her wits.

"Chew gum?" he asked.

"No, sir."

"Talk slang?"

"No, sir."

"Know how to spell correctly?"

"Yes, sir."

"Use the telephone every other minute?"

"No, sir."

"Usually tell the office force how much the firm owes and all the rest of the private business you learn?"

"No, sir."

He was thinking of something else to ask her when she took a hand in the matter and put a few questions.

CURE FOR INSOMNIA.

The Sleep Came All Right, But It Brought an Exciting Ten Minutes.

Recently a friend who had heard that I sometimes suffer from insomnia told me of a sure cure. "Eat a pint of peanuts and drink two or three glasses of milk before you go to bed," said he, "and I'll warrant you will be asleep inside half an hour." I did as he suggested, and now, for the benefit of others who may be afflicted with insomnia, I feel it to be my duty to report what happened, so far as I am able to recall the details.

First let me say that my friend was right. I did go to sleep very soon after my retirement. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and asked me if I wanted to buy his feet. I was negotiating with him when the dragon I was riding slipped out of his skin and left me floating in midair. While I was considering how I should get down, a bull with two heads looked over journey for a shower of consecration to accomplish.

It must have been a high wind indeed that brought a shower of wheat on one occasion to the villagers in a place on the southern coast of Spain. The wheat fell like rain. There were so many witnesses of the occurrence that it was impossible to doubt that it had appeared. But for some months it could not be accounted for.

Then came the other side of the story. It was learned that shortly before this fall of wheat some farmers near the northern coast of Morocco had been threshing wheat with flails when suddenly a tornado swept over the ground and carried all the wheat and chaff on the thrashing cloth into the air. The cloth was swept away by the storm, and the farmers fell to the ground, but were not injured. When the storm had passed they were horrified at discovering that the result of their labors had totally disappeared. There seemed little doubt that the wheat that fell in Spain was that which belonged to the Moroccan farmers. It had been blown clear across the Mediterranean.

Knew What He Was Doing.

For once the American had discovered something British that was better than anything they could produce "across the pond." His discovery was a fine collie dog, and he at once tried to induce its owner, an old shepherd, to sell it.

"Wad ye be takin' him to America?" inquired the old Scot.

"Yes, I guess so," said the Yankee.

"I thoct as muckle," said the shepherd. "I couldna pairt wi' Jock."

But while they sat and chatted an English tourist came up, and to him the shepherd sold the collie for much less than the American had offered.

"You told me you wouldn't sell him," said the Yankee when the purchaser had departed.

"Na," replied the Scot; "I said I couldna pairt wi' him. Jock'll be back in a day or so, but he couldna swim the Atlantic."

When Spectacles Were New.

In the days when spectacles were introduced the world was not all wise. Glasses became so fashionable that people did not wait until necessity compelled them to adopt the new custom. Whether their eyesight was bad or good, those who would be stylish wore spectacles. In Spain they formed part of the costume of every well dressed person. The object of the wearer in putting on his glasses was to increase the gravity of his appearance and render himself more directly imposing. The glasses of spectacles were proportioned in size not to the eyes, but to the rank of the wearer, those worn by the Spanish nobles being as large as one's hand. The Marquis of Astorga, viceroy of Naples, after having had his bust sculptured in marble particularly enjoined the artist not to forget his beautiful spectacles.

Water as a Headache Cure.

"The best cure I know of for a headache is to wash your face," said a bright-looking man. "Yes, I believe suddenly to cleanse your face with cold water will open up the pores and probably start the blood in circulation, and I know it will relieve you of a headache in a jiffy. I have tried it myself a great many times and have always been successful. There is something in the nature of a stimulant in the cold water treatment that braces me right up. My head when it aches gets hot and throbs, and the water makes it cool and fresh."

DENBIGH.

The excitement prevailing before and during the election has subsided; harmony and peace and quiet reigns again.

Division Court was held by His Hon. Judge Madden in Lane's Hall on the 28th ult. The docket consisted of three or four cases of little importance which were disposed of before noon.

Mr. Mayer and Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Philadelphia, who enjoyed a few weeks quiet backwoods life here, have returned to the turmoil of the city.

Miss Louise Fritch has left for Toronto, where she intends to remain during the winter.

Since the beginning of the open season for deer our woods are alive again with local and outside Nimrods, and the reports of rifles are heard in all directions. An unusually large number of Settlers permits to hunt deer has this fall been issued to local sportsmen by the Township clerk.

Mr. Frank Rodgers, collector of taxes, is on the warpath and reports slow progress, owing to scarcity of money.

Mr. D. A. Nesbitt, Public School Inspector, made an official visit to the schools in this vicinity.

A slight flurry of snow has announced the approach of winter and Jack Frost last night put an end to fall ploughing. It is to be hoped only temporary, as nearly all our farmers complain that they are behind with their fall work. The ground was too dry for ploughing early in the fall and the fighting and watching of bush-fires kept many from attending to any other work for weeks. As this year's crops were again very light and considerable wild hay was burnt by bush-fires, the local supply of feed will be scarce enough.

Mr. Richard Edwards has the misfortune to lose his dwelling house with most of its contents by fire. Though it occurred in the day time it was not noticed until the roof was about falling in and only part of the contents of the lower rooms could be saved, and fortunately also the outbuildings. There was no insurance.

Rev. G. Daechsel, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church here, has accepted a call from the Lutheran congregation of Rankin Renfrew Co. and intends to remove there in a few weeks. His removal is regretted, not only by members of his present congregation in Plevna, Denbigh, Kaylan and Maywood, but also by all who came in personal contact with him.

Messrs. Albert L. Stein and Frank Chatson, Jr., of Brockville, have arrived to enjoy a couple of weeks sport and at the same time to pay a good visit to friends and relatives in their old home.

Celluloid is a plastic material composed of gun cotton and camphor. The gun cotton, or nitro-cellulose, is made by treating tissue paper with a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids. The product is mixed with camphor and various pigments to produce the desired color, and the materials are thoroughly incorporated by means of heated rolls. It is subsequently submitted to great pressure. It is afterward molded into form by means of heated dies under pressure. It is very hard and elastic and takes a high finish.

How to Keep Baby's Milk Warm.

Cover a hot water bag with one of our flannel in which there has been made a pocket about the size of the baby's bottle. When going to bed fill the bottle as usual and place it in the pocket. Then fill the water bag with hot water and put it at the bottom of the baby's crib, covering it with a blanket, says The Delineator. When the baby wakes for its bottle in the night the milk will be ready in an instant.

"No, sir."

"Usually tell the office force how much the firm owes and all the rest of the private business you learn?"

"No, sir."

He was thinking of something else to ask her when she took a hand in the matter and put a few questions.

"Smoke cigars when you're dictating?"

"Why—er—no?" he gasped in astonishment.

"Slam things around when business is bad?"

"No."

"Lay for your employees when they get caught in a block some morning?"

"No, indeed."

"Think you know enough about grammar and punctuation to appreciate a good stenographer when you get one?"

"I—I think so."

"Want me to go to work, or is your time worth so little that?"

He interrupted her enthusiastically:

"Kindly hang up your things and let's get at these letters."

How to Remove Mildew.

Mildew may be removed by placing the article in lemon juice and placing in the sun. As fast as it dries renew the lemon. If this is not effective, make a paste of soft soap, to which you have added one table-spoonful of powdered starch, the juice of a lemon and a little salt. Spread over the spot and place in the sunshine.

So as I was sliding down the mountainside the brakeman came in and I asked him when the train would reach my station.

"We passed your station four hundred years ago," he said, calmly folding up the train and putting it into his vest pocket.

At this juncture the clown bounded into the ring and pulled the centre pole out of the ground, lifting the tent and all the people in it up, up, while I stood on the earth watching myself go out of sight among the clouds above. The Two Bacons.

Roger Bacon, 1214-1294, known as the "miraculous doctor," was a very remarkable man, 500 years ahead of his time. In fact, his mind was more modern than that of Edison, Bacon, who lived three and a half centuries later. He was probably the inventor of gunpowder. He knew that there were different kinds of glass; he predicted steamboats and railroads; he constructed lenses and burning glasses and was acquainted with the theory of the telescope; if he did not actually construct them. In an age of universal ignorance and superstition he stood for keen, scientific thinking. In opposition to the spirit of his time he sought to divert the interest of his contemporaries from scholastic subtleties to study of nature. A great man would justify himself in calling Roger Bacon a greater man than was his more famous namesake.

A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

The Trouble Yields to the Rich,
Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that rheumatism is rooted in the blood; that nothing can cure it that does not reach the blood. It is sheer waste of money and time to try to cure rheumatism with liniments and lotions that only go skin deep. You can speedily cure rheumatism with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, drive out the poisonous acid and loosen the stiffened, aching joints. Among the thousands of rheumatic sufferers cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. W. A. Taylor, Newcastle, N. B., who says:—For a number of years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism which was seated in my shoulders and knee joints. I tried liniments and blistering, but with no effect. In fact the trouble was getting worse, and my knee joints grew so stiff that they would snap if I stooped, and I could scarcely straighten up. Altogether I was a terrible sufferer, and nothing I did or took gave me any relief until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took the Pills steadily for a couple of months and every vestige of the trouble disappeared. That was two years ago, and as I have had no return of the trouble I feel safe in assuming that the cure is permanent.

Nine-tenths of the common ailments that afflict humanity are due to bad blood, and as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood, that is the reason they cure so many different troubles, such as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, eczema, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, paralysis and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood with all their distressing headaches, backaches and irregularities. KING'S SNUB TO SCOTLAND.

Revenge Himself for Slight When Prince of Wales.

King Edward passed through Edinburgh the other day on his way to Balmoral Castle, his residence in the Highlands. When his train arrived at the station the Lord Provost and the Corporation were waiting to pay their respects.

But when the King was informed that the representatives of the citizens of his Scottish capital wished to pay him homage he sent word that he could not see them. They could see him through a window, though, calmly smoking a cigar in his royal saloon car and reading a newspaper.

The Scottish officials left the railway station in high dudgeon and their indignation was intensified on hearing that at the next stopping place the King got out of the train, received the local representatives and kissed a little girl who presented him with a bouquet.

The cause of the King's affront to Edinburgh was bitterly canvassed, and it was finally explained by a statement that forty years ago, when he came here as the Prince

Time Heals Most Wounds

A Tale of Love and Disappointment

CHAPTER II.

Breakfast was over at Wolverholme Castle, and the house party had gathered on the broad terrace and were busy reading their correspondence and the morning papers. The Earl was next to Mr. Joel Josephs, who was scanning the City article of the Times.

"I see that Canadian Pacific have gone up seven points—that ought to suit you," he said to Lord Wolverholme.

The Earl made no reply, and Joel looked keenly at him, but turned away in a moment and gave an affectionate smile to his daughter Rebekah. She was a girl of whom any father might be proud, and Joel possessed to the full that Jewish trait of extreme affection for their offspring. Unlike so many of the mushroom Jewish millionaires, he did not originate from the purlieus of Whitechapel. His father had been a Hamburg merchant of good standing, and given his son a thousand pounds when he started to seek his fortune in South Africa. Success had not come at once, but he had stuck to his work with the grim tenacity of his race. He was in Kimberley at the commencement of the diamond boom. He quickly sized up its possibilities, and realized all his available assets. Every penny he sank in diamondiferous land, and when the famous De Beers mine was formed, it was found that Joel Josephs was a man who counted. There had followed a magnificent game of bluff, with millions as the stake. But Joel knew to the full the value of the land that he possessed, and meant to have his proper share.

The conflict was a sharp one, and those behind De Beers quickly realized that they were dealing with one as clever as themselves. They were men of decision, and at once gave Joel what he asked: indeed the bargain was a good one from their point of view, and at the same time an excellent deal for Joel.

A young man, not yet forty, he found himself many times a millionaire, but his success was spoilt, for within a couple of months his wife died, leaving him with a baby girl. He had been deeply in love with her, and this loss made South Africa hateful to him. Accordingly he returned to England and induced his widowed sister, Mrs. Goldberg, to live with him and look after his child Rebekah.

Gradually he grew reconciled to the loss of his wife, and the love that he had lavished on her he transferred to his daughter. When she was still in her teens, his ambition returned with increased force, and he decided that her future should be as brilliant as money could make it. Nothing had been missed that could give to a naturally clever girl every accomplishment that the world appreciates, and he felt inordinately proud of her as she stood before him in all her fresh young beauty. Her features were not of a pronounced was from Cicely Stanton, and announced the engagement of Lord Harecastle to Miss Ethel Fetherston. The blow was a sudden one, for there had been no rumor, and no coupling of their names in the way that generally precedes an engagement. She had been living in a fool's paradise, almost content with lavishing her passion upon him, and never considering if it were returned. The mere act of loving had been happiness, and there was always the belief and hope that his kindness, and affectionate manner to her, betokened an affection that would end in marriage.

She looked back upon the past months, and was obliged to own that neither by word or deed had he led her to think that he loved her. The feeling that she had bestowed her passion unasked, and where it was not wanted, added to her anguish of soul. A flow of tears soon came to her relief, and she sobbed as though her heart would break. Hope that had taken months in the building, was shattered in an instant, and the blow was beyond her strength.

The door opened, and Mrs. Goldberg entered. She started violently when she saw Rebekah in tears, and ran quickly to her side.

"What is it, dear?" she asked tenderly. "What has happened? Are you ill?"

The girl made no reply, and her weeping became more restrained. Her aunt took her in her arms, and held her to her breast.

"Tell me, my dear. Surely you can trust your aunt!"

"It is nothing. I suppose I am out of sorts." Rebekah answered despondently. Mrs. Goldberg shook her head, and looked anxiously at her niece. There had been no secrets between them, and she had been a second mother to the girl. "Shall I send for a doctor?" she asked gently.

Rebekah shook her head. "No, I am feeling better now, aunt," she answered with a brave attempt at a smile that was pitiful in its sadness, and that told Mrs. Goldberg that this was more than a passing indisposition.

"Now, dear one, just tell me what is troubling you. Think of me as your mother—I am sure I love you as one."

"It is nothing," Rebekah repeated firmly.

"Well, child, I am going to stay in this room till you choose to tell me." Mrs. Goldberg spoke very decidedly, and after another anxious look at Rebekah, who was still lying on the bed, she drew up an arm chair. She noticed a letter lying on the floor, the handwriting of which was large and clear. A sentence stood out plainly, and she could not help reading it. "You will doubtless be interested to hear that Lord Harecastle is engaged to Ethel Fetherston."

Her suspicions were immediately aroused, for she had long wished that her niece should marry Lord Harecastle, whom she thought was worthy of being her husband. The

"I think you had better rest before lunch. Wash away those tears, and come down looking your own sweet self. It is strange to see you so sad."

She kissed her tenderly, and with a soothing word left her alone. She sought out her brother, who was strolling along the terrace.

"I should like a word with you, Joel. Shall we go into the smoking room?" she said gravely.

With a look of curiosity he followed her. Fortunately the room was empty, and they drew their chairs together.

"What is the mystery, Ruth?" he asked with a smile.

"It's Rebekah."

"Is she ill?" he asked anxiously.

"In mind, only. The child is very unhappy. I found her crying as though her heart would break."

"Rebekah crying!" he cried in amazement. "It must be something serious."

"Have you heard that Lord Harecastle is engaged to a Miss Ethel Fetherston?"

"No, and I don't believe it," he said with vigor. "And I should be very disappointed if it were true. I like that young man, and I had dream—"

"Rebekah loves him dearly. After a good deal of pressure she admitted it to me."

Mrs. Goldberg stopped and looked anxiously at her brother.

"Well, what is it?" he said irritably.

"She has received a letter from a friend, which says that this engagement is an accomplished fact."

"I don't believe it. But does Harecastle love Rebekah? That is the question. Has he told her so?"

"No."

"He must have flirted and given her encouragement, for my daughter is not one who would give her affections unasked. If the man has played fast and loose, he shall suffer."

Mrs. Goldberg smiled deprecatingly, and they looked round as a servant approached them.

"His lordship would like to see you, Mr. Josephs."

"Very good."

"He is in the library, and he desired me to say that the matter is of some importance."

"Tell his lordship that I will be with him in five minutes."

For a while Joel appeared to be thinking deeply.

"This is worrying me very much, Ruth. As you know, I would do anything to further Rebekah's happiness. Anything!" he repeated vigorously. "My only pleasure in life is in her happiness. I don't see my way clear."

"The match would be a good one from the Earl's point of view. You are immensely wealthy, and they have not too much money. Although we are Jews, our family is ancient, and our pedigree as long as theirs," Mrs. Goldberg said reflectively.

"Rebekah, too, would be a fit consort for any man."

"I agree with you, Joel. The child's happiness is just as precious to me as it is to you. I do so hope that there is no truth in this engagement."

"I consider it very unlikely to be true. Harecastle is thoroughly straightforward, and Rebekah would not be in love with him unless there had been some encouragement."

"I don't agree with you in that, Joel."

"I know my child," he said impatiently. "And she has our fam-

BACKACHE, GRAVEL AND RHEUMATISM VANISH BE-FORE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Proved Once Again in the Case of Mrs. Fred. Krieger, Who Suffered from the Worst Forms of Kidney Disease.

Palmer Rapids, Ont., Nov. 2.
(Special).—The thousands of Canadians who live in daily terror of those terrible forms of Kidney Disease known as Backache, Gravel and Rheumatism, will be deeply interested in the story of Mrs. Fred.
Krieger, of this place.

"I was for years a great sufferer from Kidney Disease, Gravel, Rheumatism and Backache," Mrs. Krieger states. "It all started through a cold, but I got so my head ached, I was nervous, my limbs were heavy, I had a dragging sensation across my loins, and I was totally unable to do anything.

"Reading about wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills led me to buy some. After using a few I found they were doing me good and this encouraged me to continue their use. Eight boxes made me well.

"I have been able to do my own work ever since and to-day I am completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills gave me health and I feel like a new woman."

If you keep your Kidneys strong and healthy you can never have Backache, Rheumatism or Gravel.
Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to make the Kidneys strong and well.

ON THE FARM

FALL CARE OF FEEDING CATTLE.

Cattle intended to be fed this winter for the beef market, or any other stock, for the matter of that, should not be allowed to lose flesh by reason of short pasture during the late fall months, as weight so lost will have to be made up later on before any gain can be made; and, as gain cannot be made without cost, there is economy in planning to hold what one has. Even though late fall rains may freshen the pastures for a while, the tender grass so started has not the nutritious qualities of that of summer growth, and especially is it lacking in nourishment after being frostbitten. It is, therefore, good practice, where practicable, to supplement the pasture by giving the cattle a feed once or twice a day of hay, ensilage, cured cornstalks, and a little meal, to enable them to maintain their weight. The same suggestion, of course, applies to milking cows, and perhaps with greater force, since the milk flow is sure to shrink rapidly when the feed is lacking in nutrition and the animals are chilled by cold winds and frost, and for this reason milking stock should be stabled nights and fed extra when cold weather comes.

In the case of beef cattle, early stabling is not necessary or desirable, provided they are fed in the open something more substantial fit of growing crops at the earliest practicable opportunity.

Everything that is conducive either to present comfort or future improvement costs money or labor.
But what good is your money if it is not to be used for your homelife?
Better to spend it now in making your children's home so beautiful and attractive that they will grow to cherish both it and you, than to drive them away by scrimping, saving, keeping their environment bare and desolate, and dwarfing their intellects, in order that you may add acre after acre to your fields, or to accumulate an imposing bank account.

To the moneyless young men who undertake to make a living and fortune out of farming, the same principles apply as to those who start in the trades, in commercial or mercantile business or in the professions. Whatever the line chosen, a stage must be passed through which is little remunerative, and which tries the patience of most young men of this rapid age. The apprentice is in a great hurry to manage his own labor, the commercial or mercantile employee chafes for more rapid advancement or yearns for a business of his own.

Where cornstalks have been fed uncut their long, woody substance makes the manure not only difficult to handle, but reduces its value very materially. It is hard work doing good plowing with loose, long stalks covering the surface, and when they are turned under the furrow the effect on light, dry soil is nearly to neutralize the value of the manure. In a dry season such manure often does even more harm than good. On heavy and rather wet land, cornstalks may be beneficial by improving its mechanical condition. But where cornstalks have been cut into short lengths, the stubs unclean serve an excellent purpose as a manure absorbent, and make good manure for any crop.

MOTHERS!

Give the Children a Chance.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 103, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

SPIRIT OF PHOTOGRAPHS.

Rector of Stockton, Warwickshire, Exhibits Them.

Archdeacon Colley, rector of Stockton, Warwickshire, England, at the close of a sermon on spiritualism at Manchester the other night exhibited a series of what he called spirit photographs.

One of them taken in March last outside his residence, showed the archdeacon's mother, who died fifty years ago, and his father, who died in 1891, aged 81. The mother was never photographed during life, but her likeness had been recognized by hundreds in Leamington.

In the second photograph, taken half a minute afterward, the father and mother had changed places, and the archdeacon deduces from this a double parental blessing on what he calls his anti-Sadducee work.

"Seventeen years in the higher life," said the archdeacon, "appear to work for making my father in the spirit photograph look somewhat younger than in the negative
I took of him three years before he departed this life."

Another print shown looked, as the archdeacon said, like a psychic fog, but in the midst of the black blotch could be clearly deciphered some archaic Greek characters, and around them in ten concentric lines some microscopical writing which, the archdeacon said, contained a message from a friend who had been dead for twenty-five years. The Greek characters, interpreted recently by Sir Oliver Lodge, were a quotation from St.
Luke, chapter 17, 4th and 5th verses, but seven words were missing.

"This photograph, or rather, psychograph, was taken," said the archdeacon, "without a camera. I went to a friend's house and took out three plates and put them into envelopes. I initiated them, sealed them, and retained possession of them in my hands, and no soul touched them. I took one plate between the palms of my hands, my friend clasped my hands and a lady placed her hands above and below his. My friend then went into a trance. In a short time he said:
'They are writing.'"

DOCTORS SAID CUT OFF!

Zam-Buk Saved Odd Fellow's Finger

"The only thing I can do now is to take the finger completely off. It cannot otherwise be cured." So said one of the leading doctors of Toronto to Mr. W. C. Edwards, P.D.O.R.A.O.F., P.G.M.I.O.O.F.,
the well-known Friendly Society leader, of Peter Street, Toronto. Zam-Buk proved otherwise. Mr. Edwards cut his finger badly and blood poisoning followed. He says:

"The blood poisoning spread up my hand and arm and caused me terrible agony. After two months' treatment the doctor said there was no cure, and amputation would have to take place if I intended to save the arm. My hand at that time was all swollen up and discolored, and I had to carry it in a sling. I left that doctor and consulted another. After a few weeks' treatment he also told me that operation would be necessary. That night I bathed the wound and put on some Zam-Buk.
I got a little sleep for the first time for many nights. In the morning the wound began to bleed instead of the foul discharging as in the past. This was a healthy sign so I went on with the Zam-Buk. Well, to cut a long story short, in a few days I put away the sling and in a few weeks the finger was healed completely. To-day that finger is as sound as a bell and I owe it to Zam-Buk. I spent over $20 in doctor's fees and yet Zam-Buk, at such a trifling cost, saved me from amputation."

Zam-Buk cures eczema, ulcers, cold sores, chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases. Also cures piles. All drug-greater force, since the milk now sure to shrink rapidly when the feed is lacking in nutrition. And the animals are chilled by cold winds and frost, and for this reason milking stock should be stabled nights and fed extra when cold weather comes.

In the case of beef cattle, early stabling is not necessary or desirable, provided they are fed in the open something more substantial than frosted grass, as nature provides them with a heavier coat of hair for protection in such a contingency, and the animals are healthier for living in the fresh air, so long as they are sufficiently nourished by suitable food, especially if they have access to shelter from cold rains or snow storms. This fact has been abundantly proven by experiments in cold countries, where cattle have been successfully fattened in the open, with no other protection than that afforded by hills or woods. From the temporary wooden sheds and stables of earlier years came strong, robust and well-finished beeves, as a rule, showing more vigor, and better enduring the vicissitudes of shipping than those coddled in close, overheated stables. While the elaborated basement stabling so generally provided in these days for cattle have much to recommend them in respect to convenience of feeding and the care and handling of manure, there is reason to fear that the question of providing for abundance of light and fresh air in such structures has been neglected, to the loss of health and vigor in the animals so housed. But this difficulty may be largely avoided by planning for plenty of ventilation and light when building, and may be remedied to a considerable extent in cases where the mistake has been made. In the case of fattening cattle, at least, the maintenance of a high temperature is wholly unnecessary, and a wholesome condition may readily be supplied by means of open windows and top doors.

The feeding of dehorned fattening cattle loose in sheds or roomy box stalls, in lots of five to ten in a group, has been satisfactorily practised by some feeders, and would appear to commend itself, especially where stanchions provided for keeping the animals in place while feeding. Devices for opening and closing a row of stanchions by means of a lever at one end of the row are on the market, and would seem to be practicable and desirable under such conditions.—Farmer's Advocate.

FARM NOTES.

In mercantile and manufacturing life everything depends upon system and success on the farm is no less dependent upon systematic methods. Every farmer should gradually increase his stock of tools. Not all can purchase everything needed in a single year. It is a good plan to buy some one tool each year. In a short time one may thus be in possession of all needed equipment.

Heavy cropping with insufficient stirring as well as too little fertilizer have been the rocks on which many an otherwise successful tiller has wrecked his fortune. In these cool days the team is happy at work and the furrows turned up will be mellowed by Jack Frost.

Every farmer will find it to his advantage, not only for cleanliness and comfort of the animals, but also to increase the amount and value of manure. Manure should be so managed that no loss will occur through the heating or leaching, and it should be used for the benefitment of successive crops. Send no money, but with full instructions. Write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

DOUBLE SHOOTING TRAGEDY

Chester Johnston Shoots Rose Ouimet and Himself at Hamilton.

A despatch from Hamilton says: There was a double shooting affray on Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. B. Camelle, 180 Rebecca Street, and as a result Chester A. Johnson is dead and a girl, supposed to be Rosie Ouimet, is in the City Hospital in a critical condition. Johnson is the one who is supposed to have done the shooting, although as yet little is known of the affair. About ten o'clock a man rushed into the police station and informed the deskman that there had been a shooting at Mrs. Camelle's home, and an officer was sent with him to investigate. The man was unable to locate the house again and it was nearly an hour later before the police were able to discover where the shooting had taken place. On entering the house the officer went upstairs and found a man and woman lying on the bed in pools of blood and in an unconscious condition. He saw at once that both were in a serious condition, and he called the ambulance and hurried them to the hospital. The man was so low that the doctors were unable to do anything for him and he passed away about five minutes before midnight.

SHOT FIVE TIMES.

The woman, who was suffering from about five bullet wounds, was taken to the operating room, and at one o'clock the doctors had not got through probing for the bullets.

Her condition is such that it is feared she will not live until morning, although the doctors say they have slight hopes for her recovery.

In the room where the tragedy was enacted the following letter, signed by Chester A. Johnson, was found:—

"If we cannot live for each other we can die for each other. It was in this room that we promised to become man and wife, but that can never be, as Rosie's parents of late would not allow her to have anything to do with me, so it is in this room that we die together. Perhaps Mrs. Ouimet will be sorry now for trying to part Rosie from the man she loved and force her to marry a man she did not love."

Very little is known of the couple. Johnson is known to have been employed at the Alexandra Roller Rink, which was last year managed by his brother-in-law. He was also known to have kept company with Rosie Ouimet, whose parents reside at 40 Windsor Street.

ROSE OUMET DEAD.

Miss Rose Ouimet, who was shot by Chester Johnson in a Rebecca street house on Thursday night, died at the City Hospital at 4.45 on Friday morning. When she came out of the anaesthetic in the operating room she recognized her mother, who was standing beside the cot.

times moved to a veranda or roof; this even in cold weather.

In seeking to ally severe pain, cloths wrung out of hot water are often better than a hot water bag. An easy way to do this is to put a towel in the potato ricer, dip into boiling water, squeeze, and carry to the patient before removing from ricer, thus insuring a degree of heat not otherwise obtainable.

Mothers should begin early to accustom their children to cold baths. When the baby is a year old the baths may begin by first rubbing the child a few times with the hands dipped in cold water—not too cold—after the daily warm bath. By and by one may begin with cold sponging, and later on with a little douche. In the use of cold water it is absolutely necessary that the reaction should rapidly follow. This reaction is manifested by a pleasant warmth perceived by the child, and externally is made visible by a reddish appearance of the skin. Whenever cold water is applied to the skin one will notice at first a certain whiteness or pallor, which is caused by a contraction of the external blood vessels. The return of the blood Fashion Hints.

FADS AND FANCIES.

Metal buckles appear on many hats.

Very large pocket flaps are predicted.

Many of the new skirts are crossed in the front.

Wings are larger than they ever have been before.

Voluminous coiffures are predicted for the winter.

There are fewer quills on autumn hats than last year.

Black will be much seen, both in dress and everyday gowns.

Rich Paisley borders figure in many of the winter costume effects.

Young girls are wearing silks velvets more freely than ever before.

Lots of the new hats have the Tam O'Shanter crown, generally with felt brims.

Gold and brown, jade green, and coral will be popular colors in toques.

Many chic and durable little collars are fashioned entirely of liberty satin ribbon.

Checks and plaids have lost no favor and will be prominent throughout the fall and winter.

Buttons are large for the coats, but not of such great dimensions when adorning the skirt.

With the cutting away of coats, vests will be much worn to fill in the wide open front.

The strictly pompadour coiffure calls for a small hat to be worn far back on the head.

Corded silk is much used for outlining revers and buttons often emphasize the angles.

Fashionable shades of brown are to be dark, seal and leaf brown being the favorites.

All tones of yellow are in vogue for the new season's headgear, and khaki, buff, and suede lead.

Popular dress materials of the winter will include worsted fabrics, chevots, and homespuns.

In trimming flowers are scarce. Plumes, feathers, ribbons, and velvet adorn the hats of the season.

Shrewd modistes say that the fashion for large hats will prevail so long as plain gowns remain.

The new skirt is so narrow at the hem that it measures only from three to three and a half yards in width.

No color now has so strong a hold upon fashion as black, and whatever isn't black will at least be dull in hue.

Gray, bronze, blue green, and brownish gray costumes, as well as many others will be severely trimmed in black.

Sheer batiste waists are shown trimmed with lace and embroidery and with sleeves that reach to the knuckles.

Useful new trimmings include soutache braided net bands two inches wide that come in two tone effects and a wide range of colors.

Hair ornaments include the coronet, the coquettish bow, and the little half wreath of roses or forget-me-nots manufactured out of

HEALTH

MUSCLE-STRAINS.

A muscle which has been strained, either by overuse or by use in some unaccustomed way, often gives rise to such severe symptoms as to lead to a diagnosis of some other and more serious trouble. This affection is not the same as that called myalgia, which indeed means pain in a muscle, but is usually of rheumatic or neuralgic nature. The trouble here meant is something less serious, being nothing more than a strain.

It is easy to see that any muscular pain may be mistaken for rheumatism or some acute inflammation, as it may give rise to precisely the same painful symptoms. For example, when it occurs in some muscle on the right side of the abdomen, it has been known to look for a time exactly like the colic of appendicitis, and it has time and again been treated as true rheumatism.

There are several ways in which the facts may be discovered. On questioning, it will be found that some muscle, or a certain set of muscle, has been subjected to an unusual strain, and is in a state of mutiny in consequence. The pain will be worse at night and better in the morning after the night's rest, proving that it has a basis of fatigue. Furthermore, it will yield entirely to a proper questioning, it will be found that some muscle, or a certain set of muscle, has been subjected to an unusual strain, and is in a state of mutiny in consequence. The pain will be worse at night and better in the morning after the night's rest, proving that it has a basis of fatigue. Furthermore, it will yield entirely to a proper amount of rest. In fact, this one thing—rest—comprises the whole of the treatment.

When the abdominal muscles are involved, there must be rest in bed, with perhaps some anodyne to deaden the pain at first—this, of course, to be given only under the order of a physician. In milder cases the patients can go about their usual duties, if fitted properly with an abdominal belt.

When the muscles at the back of the neck are affected it is a great relief always to use a high-backed chair, and when the pain is in the arm a sling should be worn.

When this condition of painful muscle is found in conjunction with a general loss of tone, as shown by lack of appetite, pallor and debility, then, in addition to local rest to the particular muscle involved, a general course of tonic treatment should be instituted. Where the trouble can be traced directly to the daily vocation of the sufferer, a change should be made in the habits for a time, where this is possible. Unfortunately, with most persons, their daily bread will depend upon the use of just this particular muscle, and in these cases there is nothing to do but placate the part with all the rest that can be given it, and help it with mechanical support for a time, if this is feasible.—Youth's Companion.

HEALTH HINTS.

Sunlight is the best preventive of tuberculosis.

Aching or tired feet may be relieved quickly by plunging them in hot water which contains a tablespoonful of common baking soda.

Ring Worm Cure.—Burn on a saucer a sheet of writing paper. After blowing away the burned paper there will remain a little yellow oily place. Apply this with end of finger. One application of this oil on ringworm will cure.

Drugs are used less and less in the treatment of pneumonia. The treatment most effective is deemed to be plenty of fresh outdoor air, day and night. Patients are somely follow. This reaction is manifested by a pleasant warmth perceived by the child, and externally is made visible by a reddish appearance of the skin. Whenever cold water is applied to the skin one will notice at first a certain whiteness or pallor, which is caused by a contraction of the external blood vessels. The return of the blood to the external surface causes the reddening of the skin. As with older people, whenever reaction is lacking or tardy, the advice of a physician should be sought.

SEVEN DIE IN FLAMES.

Tragedy on Carey Farm Near Swan Lake, Manitoba.

A despatch from Swan Lake, Man., says: One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of Manitoba, and one which nearly wiped out an entire family, occurred on Friday morning on the farm of Edward Carey, near here, when Mrs. Carey, her five daughters, one son, and Miss Gillespie, a teacher in the Lake View School, who boarded with the Carey family, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home, while Mr. Carey himself was so terribly injured in the awful holocaust that he cannot long survive. Very little is known of how the fire, which cost eight lives, originated, as none of those who may have seen it remain to tell.

ONE KILLED, MANY INJURED.

Passenger Train to Montreal Collides With Freight.

A despatch from Montreal says: At 10.50 on Friday morning, No. 5 passenger train, from Island Pond, due in Montreal at 11.10 p. m., collided with a freight train at the east-end yard at Danby, Que. A combination mail car and coach on the passenger train was telescoped, and one passenger, O. Tremblay, of Wheatlands, Que., was killed. Two of the train crew and eleven passengers were slightly injured.

Mr. John Carter died at Guelph from injuries received by being crushed in a gateway.

A hundred and fifty persons were drowned when the steamer Taish went down off Etoro Island, on the Japanese coast.

and with sleeves that reach to the knuckles.

Useful new trimmings include soutache braided net bands two inches wide that come in two tone effects and a wide range of colors.

Hair ornaments include the coronet, the coquettish bow, and the little half wreath of roses or forget-me-nots manufactured out of ribbon.

Fashion allows skirts to be plain, paneled, or plaited, making only the point that the decoration shall run downward and not "round and round."

Styles are growing more simple in effect if not reality, and the salient part of the wardrobe for the coming season is the tailor made.

Among narrow trimmings there are all sorts of braided designs in one-half and three-quarter inch widths in gold or in blends of all colors or black.

Dainty white wool batiste waists have a touch of color in hand embroidered dots sprinkled over the fronts and silk covered buttons of the same tone.

Nile green and a shade known as zucchini or eggplant are used for some of the hats. These are wonderfully rich in tone. The two tones are prominent.

Women are fascinated by the new ribbed silk-covered hats with their traceries of soutache upon the brims and sometimes upon the crowns, and with edgings of silk cord.

The new pumps have a slender strap over the instep and a buckle, and this prevents it from slipping back and forth, which is the chief fault women have urged against pumps.

WESTERN COAL SHORTAGE.

Dealers in Some Towns Have Failed to Stock Up.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Still the cry of coal shortage comes from western towns, and an appeal for cars which it is impossible to supply. Coal stocks at Fort William and Port Arthur are ample for all requirements, and if the western centres are short they alone are to blame, as they were repeatedly warned to stock up before the rush of the fall began. Now loading facilities at Fort William are entirely inadequate to meet the demands, and wholesale dealers are over four hundred cars behind in their orders as a result. It may be weeks before some of the outside dealers will be able to have their orders filled, under conditions as at present. If there is any suffering, which is improbable, the people will have only their local dealers to blame. Anthracite prices are unchanged at 10.50 per ton, the figures which has prevailed for several years past.

KNIFE AND RAZOR USED:

Italians Badly Wounded are Now in Hull Jail.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A chance remark concerning the Black Hand Society of Italy precipitated a serious stabbing affray on Thursday night among the Italians employed on the construction of the new steel dam at the Chaudiere. As a result, there are lodged in Hull jail Vincentino Luella, with three knife wounds in the back, and Domenico Bouacci, with his neck badly slashed by a razor, also Antonio Sebastro and Joseph Spinello, charged with threatening to kill the foreman, Frank Rossi.

from foreign sources. There is some there is little to complain of, but the price offered is so out of line that there is still little trade eventuating. These show an advance of from 1½d to 3d. American corn is in quiet demand at 78c for No. 2 mixed in car lots and 79c for No. 2 yellow per bushel, ex-store. Buckwheat, 61c per bushel for No. 2 ahead. Canadian western No. 2 white oats are selling at 45c to 45½c, No. 3 at 44c, extra No. 1 feed oats at 44c and No. 1 feed at 43½c; Ontario No. 2 white at 44c to 44½c, No. 3 at 43c to 43½c, and No. 4 at 42½c to 43c per bushel, ex-store.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—Some medium steers sold to-day at $4.35 to $4.50 per cwt. Heavier, animals not extra well fed, brought $4 to $4.25 per cwt.

A better tone dominated trading in butchers' cattle. Dealers would be better pleased if there was a bigger proportion of first-class stock. Choice steers were sold up to $4.75 per cwt. Good butchers' cattle, straight loads, sold at $4 to $4.40 per cwt. Medium and common were brought up at $3 to $3.85 per cwt. Common cows sold at $2 to $3 per cwt. For choice cows, the range was $3 to $4 per cwt. Steers of good quality for the distilleries were sold at $3.75 to $4 per cwt. Bulls were worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt. Farmers want many light feeders, 800 to 1,000 pounds, for the country. Eastern stockers around 500 pounds, sold at $1.50 to $1.75 per cwt. for the Buffalo market. An active business was transacted in choice milch cows. Sheep are steady and lambs firm.

THE NEW QUEBEC BRIDGE

The Government Will Take Over the Undertaking at Once.

A despatch from Quebec says: The Quebec Bridge Company will cease to exist on the first of December next, when the Dominion Government will assume full charge of the construction of the bridge, as an integral part of the Transcontinental Railway. The directorate of the Quebec Bridge Company have received official notice from the Department of Railways and Canals in keeping with the foregoing, and, according to the terms of the transfer, the Government will take over the company's assets and liabilities at the same time refunding the shareholders and directors of the Quebec Bridge Company the amount of their investment, etc.

This means that the Quebec bridge will be reconstructed under the supervision of the Dominion Government, and the work of construction commenced as soon as possible after the engineers entrusted with the plans have finished their work, and the plans have been properly approved. These plans are being prepared to provide much heavier metal in the superstructure than was used in the former structure.

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY 45.

Standing of Parties in the Next U. S. Congress.

A despatch from New York says: Election returns from Congressional districts indicate that the House of Representatives in the 61st Congress will stand—218 Republicans to 173 Democrats, giving a Republican majority of 45. The present House stands 224 Republicans and 167 Democrats, giving a Republican majority of 57. The Republicans lost twelve seats. While there were Republican gains in some states, notably in Pennsylvania, these were offset by striking Democratic victories in Indiana and Nebraska. The latest returns appear to increase instead of diminish Mr. Taft's sweeping victory. From present indications he has carried Missouri by 8,000, thus adding eighteen more electoral votes to the Republican column. Maryland, too, has gone Taftward, although it is probable that an official count will be necessary to determine the result of the balloting for the electoral ticket. Mr. Taft's probable vote in the electoral college will be 327 against a possible 156 for Bryan, Colorado being still in doubt. Eliminating Colorado, with its five electoral votes, Bryan apparently has carried only enough States to give him 151 votes in the electoral college. Conceding Colorado to Bryan, it is likely that Mr. Taft's majority in the electoral college will be 171.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTION.

Conference Will be Held in Toronto Nov. 25th and 26th.

A despatch from Toronto says: The meeting of the Canadian Conference of Charities and Correction at Toronto, Wednesday and Thursday, November 25th and 26th, promises to be one of the most interesting gatherings ever held in Canada. The programme, which has evidently been carefully prepared, deals with all phases of charitable work and corrective methods in this country. The aim of the Executive is evidently to bring together as never before all engaged or interested in public charities and the administration of justice to offenders. One of the public addresses at the Conference will be delivered by J. A. Leonard, Superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory, on Prison Reform. Such important questions as the care of the consumptive, houses of refuge, hospital financing, our gaol systems, care of the feeble-minded, juvenile delinquents, care of the inebriate, causes of poverty, etc., are to be discussed. A delegation from every county in Ontario has been promised and everyone interested is invited to attend.

PEMBROKE SWEEP BY FIRE

Flames Started in Factory and Licked Up Half the Business Section.

A despatch from Pembroke says: Over half the business section of Pembroke, including the best business blocks and two banks, the largest manufacturing concerns, two mills, and two hotels and several dwellings, were wiped out by fire which started at 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The loss is estimated at 500,000, and insurance at $240,000.

The fire started in the National Manufacturing Company, a three-storey brick factory situated adjacent to the C. P. R. tracks. One supposed cause of the fire is sparks from a passing engine. The top storey was first noticed to be in flames, but by the time the firemen arrived the factory was doomed. From there it spread to the Wright tannery, a frame building adjacent, then to the frame stables of the Leland Hotel, and thence to the hotel itself, and across the street to a number of frame buildings. A terrible wind was blowing, and the burning embers and sparks were carried a block to the main street of the town, the fire breaking out in two distinct places. Several business blocks were completely destroyed, and the fire passed southwards, licking up several fine dwellings. By one o'clock the fire in the business section was under control, and two hours later all danger of the fire spreading in the residential section was removed.

HOTEL AND TOWN HALL SAVED.

The Copeland House, the largest hotel in the town, is standing with burned buildings on both sides and its frame outbuildings all burned in the rear. The Town Hall and several other residences caught fire, but were saved.

Business was completely suspended all day, and all classes of citizens assisted in the work of checking the fire and saving the goods. On orders of the Mayor, all the hotel bars were closed. Despite the fact that it was at an early hour in the morning there were no lives lost, and very few narrow escapes. From one of the houses which was burned the body of a Mrs. Sullivan, who died on Tuesday night, had to be carried to the Town Hall for safety.

In the Leland Hotel an Indian had to be called half a dozen times before he got up, and before he left the building it was in a mass of flames.

COMPLETELY GONE.

The following buildings are completely destroyed: National Manufacturing Co., Leland Hotel, Wright's tannery, Brash's Hotel, Fraser's boot and shoe store, Briscoe's restaurant, Kemp's grocery, Wallace Co.'s drugs, Winter's dentistry, Harding's photograph gallery, Mitchell's stationery, Miller's general store, Shepherd's butcher shop, Pembroke Milling Co., Pembroke Woollen Mills, Pembroke Clothing Co., Standard office, Mackie (dentist), Bolt (jewelry), Dominion Express office, Royal Bank, Quebec Bank, Bell Telephone office, Taylor's paint shop, public library, Delahaye & Reeves' law office, Beal Stone Works, Beamish (furniture), Kenning, veterinary.

PARTLY DESTROYED:

Residences: Thos. Delahaye and Harry Irwin. Market block: John P. Miller, wholesale provisions; Hardwood's jewelry store, Edwards & Harrison, photography and paint shops.

The stone bridge over the Muskrat River was badly broken and burnt.

YOUNG FOLKS

HARE AND HOUNDS.

"Hello, Freddie!" cried Bob, one brisk autumn morning, from across the hedge. "Come down to Jim Sandy's and help tear up some paper. We are going to have a hare-and-hound chase."

It was Saturday and there was no school. In response to Bob's request, his mother told him to run along, and be sure not to get off so far that he could not get back for dinner.

At Jim's house about fifteen boys were busily engaged in tearing the strips across, so that they had thousands of "flakes" an inch or so square.

Bob's little sister Marjorie was deftly sewing a couple of stout burlap bags for the hares to carry their paper in. No one knew yet who would be hare and who hound.

"Ted Forseyth ought to be a hare," said one boy, "because he goes hunting, and he knows the country better than any one else."

"Then Harry Smith ought to be

"That's what I thought," said Bob, "but I wasn't quite certain."

They were several hundred yards behind the "back." According to the rules, they might cut across and capture the hares.

Without a word, they made for a point a little beyond the clump of trees. They calculated that Ted and Allen were going straight home now, and that it would be easy to head them off. A hard run of a quarter of a mile brought them to a little grove of trees by the road near the home, or goal of the run.

"There they come!" exclaimed Bob, as he saw the two boys trot leisurely over the rise in the ground.

He and Roger stepped out. "We saw you! We saw your white cap!" they shouted.

The hares were caught, much to their own surprise. "I ought to have known," admitted Allen, later. "Freddie's little sister told me not to wear it before we started!"

Guess she would make a pretty good hare herself if she were only bigger."

Presently the "pack" came home, tired and winded. Bob and Roger, who had kept their eyes open and saved their legs, were the heroes of the day, and they were really triumphant.—Youth's Companion.

A NEW GRAIN ELEVATOR.

Company to Erect $500,000 Structure at Port Arthur.

A despatch from Port Arthur says: A new company, to be known as the Thunder Bay Elevator Company, has been organized at Winnipeg and has signed an agreement with Port Arthur for the erection here of a new elevator with a capacity of 1,500,000 bushels, to cost $500,000. The site is already procured and work will commence almost immediately. The promoters of the company are W. McWilliams, N. Bawlf, and C. B. Piper, who are the principal stockholders in the Empire Elevator Company, which has a plant at Fort William.

FIGHT WITH ROBBERS.

Two Bank Clerks at Mariville, Que., Act Bravely.

A despatch from Montreal says: The branch of the Eastern Townships Bank at Mariville, Que., was entered by robbers on Tuesday night, but they were beaten off. The noise of their entry aroused two clerks sleeping in the rear of the building, and hastily dressing, they took up arms and entered the room where the burglars were at work. The miscreants fired at them, and an exchange of shots followed. A bullet grazed the head of one clerk, but his condition is not serious. The bandits then fled without any booty being secured. They are being pursued by Chief McCaskill of the Provincial police and his assistants.

$63,000,000 WORTH EXEMPT.

Immense Amount of Property in Montreal Pays No Taxes.

A despatch from Montreal says: From a report just completed at the City Hall it is shown that properties which are exempted from paying property taxes will this year foot up a total exemption of over $63,000,000. The exemptions have risen in less than ten years' time by fully $25,000,000. The properties exempted are churches, parsonages, properties belonging to the Government and civic properties.

THREE KILLED AT CROSSING.

Mrs. Robert Scott and Sons Run Down by Engine.

A despatch from Guelph says: Mrs. Robert Scott and two sons, Leonard and Murray, aged 11 and 13 years, of Hullet, were instantly killed on Wednesday morning on the Guelph and Goderich Railroad, two crossings east of Auburn and eleven miles from Goderich. They were driving to school and were struck by a light engine, running up from Guelph Junction. The horse escaped, but the buggy was struck, and all three occupants killed. A heavy snowstorm contributed to the occurrence.

PARIS BOURSE DISTURBED.

Owing to Gravity of Situation in Near East.

A despatch from Paris says: The Bourse, despite the satisfaction that pervades the public over the result of the American election, was very much depressed on Wednesday, on account of a feeling that the situation in Eastern Europe continues to be very grave, and also on account of the serious friction existing between France and Germany over the former's arrest at Casablanca of German deserters from the French foreign legion.

SEVEN MEN KILLED.

Explosion in a Cut on the G. T. P. in Rainy River.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Seven men have been killed at McLean's Camp, on the Transcontinental Railway, 18 miles north of Dryden, Ont., by an explosion of dynamite in a rock cut. The accident occurred late on Tuesday, and four bodies are still buried in the debris. This makes nine deaths in five days.

sands of "flakes" an inch or so square.

Bob's little sister Marjorie was deftly sewing a couple of stout bur-lap bags for the hares to carry their paper in. No one knew yet who would be hare and who hound.

"Ted Forseyth ought to be a hare," said one boy, "because he goes hunting, and he knows the country better than any one else."

"Then Harry Smith ought to be one, too," said Bob.

Finally it was decided that Harry should lead the hounds, and that Ted, with Allen Greenough, should be the hares. At length everything needed was ready.

The rules were that the hares should have ten minutes' start over the others, that they must drop paper wherever they went, and that the hounds must follow the paper trail unless they actually caught sight of their quarry, when they might cut across lots.

Bob was a hound. How impatiently he waited with the boys for the ten minutes to go by! There were great discussions as to exactly where the hares would go, and everybody seemed to think that they would certainly cross Brook's meadow. This was a huge, rolling field of pasture-land. In spite of the fact that it was called a meadow, it was half-wooded, and afforded many a fine chance for the hares to relieve each other, one laying a part of the trail, while the other took a shorter route.

The ten minutes were past, and the race began. All the boys together pretty well at first, and ran in good form. Bob and a boy called Roger Irvin were not so fast. The reason for this was that they two had not been practising as the others had for the chase, since they had not known anything about it.

After the second hill, Bob and Roger began to lag a little. The run had been up a road, across a small stream in a valley, up the other side, and now they were headed, as had seemed likely, for Brook's meadow. The sun shone brightly, but the air was still crisp and invigorating.

Suddenly Bob grabbed Roger's arm.

"Look!" he said. "What do you see, moving along by that clump of trees—over there toward the corner of the fence?"

Roger looked in the direction indicated.

"I see a white cap," he said. "Good gracious, Bob, it is Allen! It's gone now!"

have known," admitted Allen, later. "Freddie's little sister told me not to wear it before we started! Guess she would make a pretty good hare herself if she were only bigger."

PONZI FOUND GUILTY.

Verdict of Manslaughter in the Ingersoll Case.

A despatch from Woodstock says: A verdict of guilty of manslaughter was given by the jury at half-past 5 on Thursday evening, after an hour's deliberation in the case of Michael Franz Ponzi, whose trial on a charge of murder commenced on Wednesday. After the verdict Ponzi was taken back to jail to await sentence later in the session.

MORE WONDERFUL STILL.

"Do you know," remarked a woman to her husband, "that Johnny is a somnambulist?"

"A what?" was the gruff query. "A somnambulist. He walks in his sleep!"

"When did he begin to do that?" "I never noticed it until last night. After he'd gone to bed and was sound asleep, he got up, dressed himself, went down into the cellar, and brought up a pailful of coal."

"He did that in his sleep?"

"He did. I watched him. He didn't know anything about it this morning, either. How can you explain such a thing?"

"Well," replied the husband, "I can't. But if he had done it while he was wide awake it would have been more incomprehensible!"

ANOTHER BEGINNING.

"I've got a washing machine here," began the inventor.

The capitalist looked at him in the cold, calculating manner common to capitalists, and answered:

"Well, if I were you I'd run straight home and use it."

That night the Anarchist circle received another application for membership.

WAR IMPROBABLE JUST NOW

Trouble in the Balkans May be Expected in the Spring, However.

A despatch from Vienna says: The Government has received a note from Russia proposing an international conference, but indicating that the programme for this meeting will be much vaguer than that issued in London some time ago. It suggests merely a discussion of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, the independence of Bulgaria, the compensation to be paid by the latter to Turkey, the claims of Montenegro and Serbia, the abolition of the capitulations and foreign post-offices in Turkey. The note does not protest against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina or make any comment thereon, and is framed in an entirely non-committal manner. The consensus of opinion is, however, that Russia is determined to oppose the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and consequently there is considerable anxiety over Austria's determination not to budge on this point. The military preparations have not been relaxed, but the Government is of the opinion that hostilities are most improbable this Winter. On the other hand, if things do not settle before Spring trouble is likely to occur then.

THE BEST FLOUR. DAFOE'S NONESUCH DAFOE'S MANITOBA PATENT

By numerous tests by the best Bakers the above mentioned grades have been proven to be the best Flours in the market.

When buying Flour ask for Dafoe's, and patronize your home mill, thereby producing Bran and Shorts that you can purchase cheaper than the product of the Western mills, which has to be transported thousands of miles at great expense, and usually, when it reaches you, of inferior quality.

The grocer complains if the farmer or the mechanic sends to Toronto or to outside points for an article he can get at the home store just as good, but he does not hesitate to buy Flour from mills hundreds of miles away, and sell you an inferior Flour for more money than you can purchase the home product for, every bag of which is guaranteed.

CHOICE CORN MEAL and BUCK-WHEAT FLOUR always on hand.

FEED GRINDING a specialty, with the best feed mills known to the trade.

A full stock of the best ANTHRACITE COAL. Also in the market for the purchase of all kinds of Grain.

Ask for prices at the big Mill before purchasing your Flour, Feed or Coal.

Napanee Ladies' Musical Club.

The first regular meeting of the Napanee Ladies' Musical Club, for the season 1908-9, will be held in the Town Hall, this Friday afternoon, Nov. 15th, at 4 o'clock. A good program has been arranged, and it is hoped all the old members, and as many new ones as possible, will go early, and secure their membership tickets for the season.

A Treat Guaranteed.

The Ladies' Aid of the Western Methodist Church have secured the services of the celebrated Scottish vocalist Madam Anna Don Cochran, who with the best local talent, will give a concert in the church on Tuesday evening next, Nov. 17th. Admission 15c. Programme begins at eight o'clock. Don't miss it.

Destroyed by Fire.

Sunday evening, about 10.30 o'clock, the small frame house on Thomas St., occupied by John Wickham, was destroyed by fire. The fire was first noticed by Mr. Geo. Gibbard, who hastened across the road and assisted Mr. Wickham, who is an invalid, from the burning building, and not a moment too soon either, for as it was the old gentleman's shirt was scorched brown, and the back of his neck blistered. The fire brigade turned out promptly and soon extinguished the blaze. The fire is supposed to have started from an overheated stovepipe.

Church of St. Mary Magdalene.

The Lord Bishop of the Diocese, Rt. Rev. Wm. Lennox Mills, D. D., will visit this parish on Sunday next, Nov. 15th, when the services will be as follows: Holy Confirmation and Holy Communion at 10.30, and Evensong at 7. The Bishop will preach at both services. There was a good congregation on Thanksgiving Day, when an excellent and most helpful sermon was preached by Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, M. A., Rector of Deseronto. Last Sunday evening Mr. Dudley Hill gave a stirring address on Sunday School work.

Helped Themselves.

On Monday evening Mr. J. L. Boyes' store was entered by burglars and a quantity of clothing stolen, besides a small sum of money in the till. The thieves apparently confined their operations to the clothing department as in the telegraph office nothing was missed. The thieves gained entrance to the store by breaking a glass in the back door and smashing a panel in the second door. On Tuesday word was received from Brockville that a Napabee boy had been arrested there as a drunk having in his possession a bundle of new clothes and asking if any goods had been missed. Chief Graham went to Brockville and brought the lad here and subsequently arrested the other lad concerned in the affair. Both lads belong to respectable families but drank led to their undoing. The prisoners appeared before Justices of the Peace, Lapin and Vandusen, on Wednesday morning and were remanded for eight days until the return of Police Magistrate Rankin.

In Memory of

ROSA CELIA McKINSTER.

A loving one from us is gone,
A voice on earth is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
We would not wish her back again,
If we our choice could make,
Her toils are o'er, her work is done,
The battle fought, the victory won.
Some day the silver cord will break,
And we shall join the throng,
And reunite in praise with her
That passed away, 'twill not be long.

THE COXALL CO.

On October 27th an "At Home" was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Herrington, in aid of the Organ Fund, of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, which was very successful and resulted in a substantial amount being added to our fund. A good musical programme was provided and everyone seemed to enjoy the social evening. The ever popular home-made candy proved very attractive and remunerative. This entertainment was followed a week later by an organ recital in the church. Mr. Phelps, of Belleville, gave a delightful recital on Nov. 14th, to an appreciative congregation. His numbers represented the best in music, and were beautifully played, the gentleman showing a complete control of his instrument and handling it with taste and discretion. The returns were satisfactory, for this also was in aid of the Organ Fund, and the Guild, under whose auspices the entertainment was held, wish to thank all those who kindly took part in this recital, as well as at the At Home for their valuable assistance in helping to make both entertainments the success they proved to be.

IMPATIENT DYSPEPTICS

Can't cure in a day what has been a chronic ailment for years, but Dr. Von Staap's Pipeapple Tablets and a little persistence will cure the severest forms of Dyspepsia as sure as the daylight follows darkness.

And a few doses is all that is needed to convince the most impatient and sceptical of patients. Carry them about with you in your pocket; take them when and where you please; they're harmless and give almost instant relief. A gentle tonic to the whole nervous system. 35c for 60 tablets. (14) Use Dr. Agnew's Ointment for the skin, 35c.
